

inventories, and lists of debts received, and accounts, passed by them, and to transmit to the office a true list thereof, yearly, on or before the tenth day of December.

They are at the expiration of three months, or oftner, to inspect such book of entries, and by the list of wills observe if administration hath been taken on every such deceased person's estate; the column of inventories and account, will shew if the inventory hath been returned, or the account passed; in failure of either of which, their duty requires to call upon such neglectful executor, or administrator, for an immediate compliance; which, if not obtained, or no cause shewn why a further indulgence should be granted, they are without loss of time to acquaint the commissary general therewith.

They are also yearly, at or before the tenth day of December, to transmit to the office an enumerated list of alienations of lands, during the preceding year; being an abstract from every will to them returned, of what lands have been therein devised, and to whom, with the devisor's and devisees names, the date of the probate to the will, the name of the land, what county the land lies in, and the quantity
