

1 words, shall be the highest court of the State.

2 THE CHAIRMAN: That carries out your idea?

3 JUDGE PROCTOR: Exactly.

4 THE CHAIRMAN: When we get to People's Court,
5 we say, they shall be the lowest court.

6 I think we have covered the Circuit Court,
7 except for the composition of it.

8 JUDGE WARNKEN: Before you get away from that,
9 Mr. Melvin, while Judge Brune and I were kidding each
10 other, I suggested People's Court could be called the
11 Commons Court, and he said, Actually you could call it
12 the Court of Common Pleas. That is not a bad idea, Court
13 of Common Pleas.

14 JUDGE BRUNE: I think a better name could be
15 found.

16 JUDGE WARNKEN: That would get away from this
17 name, People's Court, which has not pleased everybody.
18 The Court of Common Pleas wouldn't make it conflict with 19 any of these other named courts that you would have.

20 MR. ENEY: Maybe you would like the English
21 name, Court of Petty Sessions.
