In Chancery
 July Term 1817.
 This case was argued at the present term
 and notes were filed on behalf of one of the heirs since which, the proceedings have been considered.

It is the first instance I believe of an application to record a deed of the kind, but I am nevertheless of opinion that it ought to be granted.

It was made under the act of 1792 Ch. 41. the course of proceeding) under which was remarked on in the order of February 18th 1817. No measures have been since taken for having the facts before the Court, and the defence has been made on the construction of the law.

The words of the act are general "any deed to the validity of which recording is necessary." It speaks of land or other thing conveyed. And the original act on the same subject (1785. Ch. 72, spoke of the thing) or premises
