Robinson undergoes tests; release expected today

Department of Juvenile Justice Secretary Bishop L. Robinson is expected to be released from the hospital today, two days after complaining of shortness of breath and tightness in his chest.

Robinson, 75, is in good condition, said his spokesman, Lee Towers. He said doctors were performing "routine" tests.

After a hearing Tuesday, Robinson was taken by ambulance to Anne Arundel Medical Center, then transferred to University of Maryland Medical Center.
