PETERSBURGH, May 19.

MARSHAL Soltikoff has been detained here by Reasons which the Public know nothing of, but which will very soon cease, if it is true, as we are this Day assured, that he will infallibly be at the Head of his Troops by the 2d of June. The Courts of Vienna and France have been pressing us to begin our Operations, persuaded that no Time must be lost, if we would make an honourable Peace for the Defenders of the common Cause.
Count Soltikoff will have this Campaign 113,517 Men under his Command, Forces surely sufficient to reduce the Prussians. Notwithstanding all the Reports about General Totleben, the Empress, knowing him to be a good Officer, has desired him to continue to command the Light Troops.

Leipzig, May 24. A great Quantity of old Linen has just been sent to the King of Prussia's Army, in order to make Lint, and all the young Surgeons here, are ordered to repair thither; all which denotes that his Majesty intends to give Battle to the Austrians before they can be supported by the Army of the Empire, which seems to be advancing that Way, though it will be very difficult for them to find Subsistence, especially for their Cavalry, every District having been already foraged.

Frankfort, June 1. Friday last 4000 Hanoverians came to Frankfort to pillage that Town, but the Count de la Nöe obliged them to fall back to Schlitz, with the Loss of 20 killed, a great Number wounded, and 20 Prisoners. The French lost in all but nine private Men.

Naples, May 13. By Order of the King of Spain, we are embarking for Barcelona all the Balls in our Arsenal of a certain Bore, many small Pieces of Artillery, and other Implements of War.

Nuremberg, May 27. Our Advices from the Mayne are, that 20,000 French are marching towards the Bailiwick of Gemunden, in the Bishopric of Wurzburg, in order to prevent the Allies from advancing. As they carry no Provisions with them, they have demanded 2000 Quintals of Hay, 200 Bushels of Oats, with Wood and Straw in Proportion.
This Quantity must be delivered daily, or the Country will be foraged.

Stockholm, May 23. A Detachment of Bombardiers, with a great Number of Horses, and a Quantity of Ammunition, have been embarked at Yted.

Dulmen, May 30. M. de Sporcken, whose Head Quarters are here, commands a Corps of 30,000 Men. We have a very strong Garrison in Ham, about five Miles from hence: A Magazine is erecting at Drontheimfurth; Munster furnishes the Forage: In a Word, we want neither Troops nor Provisions. Twenty thousand French are assembling in the Neighbourhood of Wesel.

Petersburgh, May 16. They are working briskly in the Ports of Cronstadt and Revel towards the Equipment of a Fleet which the Empress is resolved to have at Sea this Year; and which is to consist of at least 20 Ships of the Line, to be commanded by the brave Admiral Mischowkoff.

The King of Poland has sent the Collar of the Order of the White Eagle, enriched with Diamonds, worth upwards of 25,000 Rubles, to Count Soltikoff.

Settin, June 3. Several Inhabitants of this Province have been sent to Goal, being accused of holding Correspondence with the Russians, and favouring their late Incursions upon our Frontiers, from whence they have carried off near 4000 Head of horned Cattle.

Cleves, June 4. The Defection of the French Troops in this Dutchy is so great, that Picquet Guards are obliged to be posted at different Places, in order to put a Stop to it.

Stockholm, May 23. Between three and four hundred Recruits for our Army in Pomerania embarked this Morning at Delaroe.

Paderborn, June 3. The Prospect of our coming to a speedy and decisive Action with the French, seems at an End for the present, Marshal Broglie having withdrawn the greatest Part of his Army from Friedberg, where they were assembled, and cantoned them in the Wateraw. This obliged Prince Ferdinand to order our Troops, that were advanced beyond Fritlar towards Friedberg, to return to Fritlar, where the Allied Army now remains. In the mean Time, every Thing is preparing by the French for a general Encampment of their Army; but whether Marshal Broglie intends to entrench himself, and by that Means keep Prince Ferdinand from sending Reinforcements to the King of Prussia, or whether he intends to risk a Battle with his Serene Highness, is at present very uncertain. Should the French encamp at Giessen, it is thought the Allied Army will march from Fritlar to Marburg, whereby Prince Ferdinand will be so very near them, that the first Motion of either Army will doubtless bring on a Battle.

Hague, June 10. A Hanoverian Detachment, under the Command of M. Schreyter, lately crossed the Rhine, in order to surprize the French Garrison of Emmerick, in the County of Cleves; but the Commanding Officer getting Notice of their Design, took his Measures so well, and hemmed in the Hanoverians so close, that to escape the French, and get back to General Sporcken's Camp, they were forced to go into the Territory of the Quarter of Nimeguen, whither the French, out of Regard to the Republic's Territory, would not pursue them. The Commanding Officer of the Garrison sent Notice of the Affair to the French Resident at the Hague, who laid it before the Greffier Fagel, and the President of the Weck. These Gentlemen made Answer, that it had not yet come to the Knowledge of their High Mightinesses. Meanwhile M. de Zoelin, first Deputy of the Province of Gueldres, was ordered to enquire into it, and having made his Report on Tuesday, the Deputies of their High Mightinesses were ordered to confer with Baron Sporcken, the Hanoverian Resident, on this Violation of the Republic's Territories.

The City of Hamburg proposes to send Deputies here to solicit the good Offices and Intercession of their High Mightinesses towards appeasing the Displeasure of his most Christian Majesty, who has thought proper to prohibit the Trade of the Hamburgers with France. This Affair is of the utmost Consequence to the Merchants of Hamburg, who carry on all their Trade in the North by the Assistance of the Wines and Brandies they import from France; besides which, they enjoyed many great and peculiar Privileges by Virtue of their Treaty of Commerce with France.

This Stroke will be so terrible to them, that their Remittances from England to Germany will be but a poor Equivalent for their Loss. If the Court of France continues its Resentment, the Dunkirkers will, in two Years Time, run away with the richest Branch of the Hamburgers Trade.

As the Subjects of this Republic will likewise draw some Advantages from the Disgrace of the Hamburgers, it is doubted whether their High Mightinesses will concern themselves in this Affair.

Leghorn, May 23. The Genoise are making great Preparations: In the Words of a Letter just come to Hand, they are arming against the Rebels of Corsica with Rapidity, even with Fury; and it is not doubted, if the Success is answerable to the Dispositions, but Paoli will be seen in Irons. A Subscription of 16,000,000 of Livres is opened for this Purpose at Genoa.

Rome, May 28. Things are coming to Extremities with the Genoise. We know that Venice, and some Princes of Italy, will be for Rome, but the Genoise will have some very powerful Courts on their Side.

Berlin, June 3. There is Advice from Silesia, that General Landau, with 50,000 Men, is actually in the County of Glatz.
The Austrian Prisoners at Magdeburg amount to 6502, including 7 Generals, 45 Field Officers, and 450 others.

June 6. Nothing of Consequence has passed between the Armies in Saxony and Silesia.

Nuremberg, June 3. A large Detachment of Prussian Infants has entered the Town of Götting, and laid it under Contribution.

Paris, June 6. Orders are given to fit out a great Number of flat-bottomed Boats and Prames in different Ports. One of these Boats, in going round from Havre-de-Grace to Brest, flood the Attack of one of the Enemy's Frigates.

Madrid, May 27. There are at present in the Port of Cadiz, ready to put to Sea on the shortest Notice, 48 Ships of the Line, 12 Frigates, and 15 Chibacs.

Wesel, June 4. Provision is making at this Place of all Implements for a Siege. There have been sent here from France, 36,000 Bombs, which are probably destined for Hameln and Lipsiadt.

Ratibon, June 12. Some Ministers have received Expresses with Advice, that France, Great-Britain, and Prussia, have concluded a separate Peace, and that M. Broglie received a Courier the 7th Instant, with Orders to suspend Hostilities.

LONDON, June 7.
They write from Naples of the 7th ult. that 3,000,000 Pieces of Eight have been again remitted from the King of Spain, to pay off the Debts of that Crown, and for other Purposes relative to that State.

June 10. The Emperors of Russia being very pressing for the Arrears of her Subsidy from France, the Treasury have given her Bills of Exchange on Holland for 600,000 Rubles [4s. 6d. each.]

The Aeolus Man of War, Captain Elliot, has taken from under the Guns of the Fort of Belleisle, a small French Vessel, and carried her into Admiral Boscawen's Fleg.

Two Thousand more Troops are on their March to embark forthwith to join the Allied Army.

We hear there will be a Bombardment on the Coast of Normandy under the Command of Rear-Admiral Rodney.

June 12. The Magistrates of Hamburg have received the important and disagreeable News, that the Court of France has declared the Treaty of Commerce with them null and void; and have given Permission to their Privateers to cruise upon their Trade.

His Majesty's Frigate, the Aeolus, Captain Elliot, arrived in Quiberon Bay the 17th ult. and carried in with her a French Brigantine, laden with Stores for the Garrison of Belleisle. She attempted to run ashore under a Battery of Belleisle. She was fired upon by the French, but she greatly injured; but the Aeolus just got Time enough to cut her off, and after they had fired several Shot she struck.
Our Frigate was exposed to a continual Fire of two Batteries, one consisting of 42 Pounders, and the other of 12; they also fired some Shells, but luckily did no Execution. The Aeolus is gone Commodore, in Company with the Brilliant, on a Cruise along the Spanish Coast, in Quest of the Privateers hovering about there.

On the 19th ult. his Majesty's Ship Melampus chased off Ushant, a French Snow, which they judged to be a Privateer, and pressed him so hard, that he overlet in a Squall of Wind, and went to the Bottom, about five Miles to Windward.

The Juno Frigate, on the 14th of April last, engaged a French Frigate of 26 Guns, off Bilbao, for one Glais, when the Frenchman struck, and the Juno carried her into Port Antonio.

June 17. It is pretty remarkable, that 43 of the Ships out of 200 taken by the Enemy since the 1st of March last, have been ranfomed for between 14 and 15000 l. so that taking the Whole upon an Average (except the Thames, Capt. Saunders, and the Prince of Wales, Capt. Landfield, which two Ships are valued at 150,000 Pounds) the Whole of their Captures during that short Space of Time, including the above two Ships, amounts to between Two and Three Hundred Thousand Pounds.

Extract of a Letter from Parayle Monial, in Burgundy, in France, June 8.

"A young Nobleman, not quite 20 Years old (the Count de B—, Lieutenant of Cavalry) was attacked a few Days ago, by a mad Wolf of an extraordinary Size. (It is a pity his exact Size is not mentioned). The furious Animal first seized the Horse, and tore off such large Pieces of his Flank, that Monsieur de B— was soon dismounted. Then the Wolf flew (or jumped) at him, and would certainly have torn him in Pieces had he not had great Presence of Mind. With one Hand (his Right) he seized the Wolf's foaming Tongue, and with the other (his Left) held one of his Paws. (Nobly done). After struggling a while with the terrible Creature, the Tongue slipped from him, (a terrible lapsus lingue) and his right Thumb was bitten off; (it is well it was no worse); upon which, notwithstanding the Pain he was in, he leaped upon the Wolf's Back, clapt his Knees close to his Flanks, (by this one would think he had leaped with his Face the wrong way) and called out for Help, to some armed Peasants who were passing by, but none of these Fellows (a Parcel of dastardly Rascals) dared to advance: Well then, said he, Fire, (spoke like an Officer), If you kill me, I forgive you. One of them fired, and three Bullets went thro' the brave Officer's Coat, (probably his Flaps under the Wolf's Belly), but neither he nor the Beast were wounded. Another, bolder than his Comrades, (a courageous Fellow this), seeing the Cavalier was intrepid, and kept firm on the Wolf, came very near and let fly at him: The Animal, (that with four Legs, and a foaming Tongue) was mortally wounded by this Shot; and after a few more furious Struggles, expired. In this dreadful Conflict (dreadful indeed), beside losing his right Thumb, the young Count's left Hand (or perhaps Ruffie) was torn, and he got several Bites in his Legs and Thighs. When he arrived at Bon-la-Roi, where his Regiment lay, he was advised to go down, with all Speed, to the Sea, which he accordingly did." (And there we leave him).

June 20. A Sloop of War, with two Land Officers on board, we hear, is sailed from Plymouth, with Dispatches for General Murray at Quebec, and General Amherst, who, it is supposed, was not far from him.

They write from Barcelona, that the Victoire Privateer, Captain Arnoux, was off that Port with a Prize she had taken, of 20 Guns, and upwards of 60 Men, bound from America to the Straights, laden with Sugar, and was going with her to Marseilles.

Extract of a Letter from Frankfurt, June 10.

"The Report that was spread of a speedy Accommodation between France and England is entirely vanished.
The French Ministry have wrote to Marshal Broglie, to be prepared against all Events; that, as the Supplies were raised, the King was determined to risk another Campaign. The French Troops are certainly in fine Order, especially the Infantry, and well supplied with every Thing. Most of the Regiments are more than complete; so that, notwithstanding the Void made by the Departure of the Wirtembergers, there is great Reason to hope for a glorious Campaign. Marshal Broglie having represented to the King the Inconvenience he was laid under by the unexpected Loss of those Troops, his Majesty hath assured him, that they shall soon be replaced, either by a Reinforcement of French, or by other foreign Mercenaries. His Majesty hath accordingly applied to the Court of Mannheim for a Body of their Forces; but they excuse themselves by alleging that this will probably be the last Campaign, and that it would be some Time before they could send to the Field a Body of Troops equal to the Wir-tembergers."

Part of a Letter from Fort St. George, dated October 25, 1759.

"Our Reinforcements, though too late to enable us to destroy the French Fleet, may be useful at Bengal, as the Dutch begin to give themselves Airs there, on Account of some Hardships laid on their Trade, by the Nabob, in our Favour. They have sent six Ships and some Troops thither, from Batavia; and as the Nabob has refused them a Passage up the River, and seems resolved to revenge the Insult, I fear it must come to a Rupture. It is a most valuable Settlement to the Company, therefore I could wish Things remained quiet there."

The Earl of Holderness East-India Ship, Captain Robert Brooke, is arrived at Portsmouth from the East-Indies, with Advice, that the Dutch, upon a Misunderstanding with the Nabob, having joined the French, with a Design to make an Attack upon Calcutta, and having affected a Landing, were attacked and defeated by the Nabob, in Conjunction with General Clive. At the same Time seven of their Ships that had brought Troops on this Occasion, were attacked, in Bengal Road, by the Company's Ships, three of which were taken, and three sunk.
