From a late. ENGLISH PAPER. To SIR F-- B-

FROM developing the Character, Connections and Conduct of your Patron, L.—H—, I come now to an Enquiry into those of his Favourite G—. From Birth, Sir F, you derive no Splendour; it would even take more Trouble, than I am inclined to bestow upon a Subject so insignificant, to draw it from absolute Obscurity. From Abilities, neither would you ever have claimed Attention, had it not been for the memorable Æra of the Stamp Act. was then that your Excellency stept forth, and justified this Observation of an incomparable semale Historian, that I grovelling Instruments of Oppression are ever insolent in Office, in Proportion to the Baseness of their Education, and the Servility of their Natures. You became from that Period, the Incendiary of Great-Britain and her Colonies, and the eligible In-Great-Britain and her Colonies, and the eligible Infirument of establishing Despotisin in America to that Set of Men, who were meditating the same Destruction to the constitutional Liberties of England.

You are now to appear at that Tribunal, from which there is no earthly Appeal; the Tribunal of the Public. Here the upright Magistrate has every Thing to hope, the Oppressor every Thing to fear.

I begin with your hest Appearance during the Stantp-Act: Your Representation then was, that the Intention of the Colonies was, to reader the Authority of Great-Britain contemptible. This Charge is brought against you, in the most solumn Manner, by Three and Thirty Lords, Spiritual and Bemparal; the Validity of it therefore is hardly questionable. The Intention of it, Sir F is equally obsours. To Institute the Winds of his Majesty's Ministers and of the Lightladure, to as to divert their Attention from the fullity of the American Complaints, to a crupinal and extinctions in their Opposition, which existed only in the Ministerior of word was the Ministeriors. existed only in the Malignity of your own Heart. Gowerned shus by supported Intentions, and not by real Batts; this Country was to have denounced War against her Colonies, and to have cut afonder, with the sheets of her Commerce and of her. Wealth, to grafify the Mahed of an arbitrary, specying a Bashaw. Happily, however, your Views there, at that Time disappointed, and your Vengance referved for a more favourable Opportunity, which too foon presented itself in the Advancement of your present Patron to the American Department. The Stampfent Patron to the American Department. The Stampfor the Repeal, were trainmitted in Addresses to our most gracious Sovereign, without once mentioning the Dackaratory-Act, which threw a melandhely shill conthe future Profess. 6 for mentioning the future Prospect; so far were the Colonies from seizing einto Contempt the Authority of GretziBritain. Every Thing was now quiet in America, fo that even in your own Government the People acted with Temper and Moderation." May we not conclude then. Sir Moderation." May we not conclude then, Sir that your Charge was as groundless as it was malicious? A Charge, in which you were supported by one other Governor only.

See the Protof of the Land affing combiliting the

The Tranquillity of America and the Harmony between the Two Countries were now reflored; and would, in all Probability, have lasted for every had not the same arbitrary and offensive Ideas been resumed, and drawn into exercise over the Colonies. The Duty-Act excited the Alarm that had subsided, and surnished to your ardent Wish, a fiesh Opportunity of misrepresenting and embroiling the Affairs of America. In this laudable Spirit, we trace you next inveighing, in your Letter to the Earl of Shelburne, against the Circular Letter from the Representatives of Mathehufetts-Bay, to the other Houses of Assembly; which was solely to inform them, that the House had voted an humble, dutiful, and loyal Petition to his Majetty, laying before him the Grievances they suffered from the late Revenue A.A. laying before him the Grievances they suffered from the late Revenue-Act, and praying his constitutional Interposition for their Relief; to make the Prayer of which Petition more successful, they desired the Concurrence of the other Houses. As the Grievances arising from the Act were general, the Propriety of a general Petition for Relief was obvious; and it is left to your Excellency to point out, what Method an aggreeved People can adopt, more loyal, more innocent, and more constitutional, than petitioning the Throne. In your Letter, however, you represent this most du-In your Letter, however, you represent this mest du-tiful and moderate Transaction, as an "Undertaking calculated to instame the whole Continent, and engage them to join together in another Dispute with the Parliament, about the Authority of the latter; and that if the Act complained of should be given up, all other Acts of American Revenue must follow †."

Thus you flattered yourfelf with having fixed an early Prejudice against the just Representation of the coplei and an infurmountable Bar to the Redreis of Grisvances. But the noble Lord who then prefided over the Affairs of America, impressed with a true Sense of the constitutional Rights of the Colonies, wiewed your Attempt in its proper Light; and you would have met what you deferved, another Difappointment, had not the Department failen, in an evil Hour, to one perfectly fitted for your Purpofe, which was, in Truth, to reflame the whole Continent, and renew the Dispute so little profitable to either Country. How happily your Patron and you have fucceeded in this, the State of America from that Time to this will abundantly demonstrate. You have had the Pleafure of hearing your own Words re-echoed back from the empty Heads of your Superiors here; your Plans have been adopted, and have kindled Flames which re-dered you unsafe in America, and may consume you here. Raro antecedentem, caleflum defervit pede prena claudo. JUNIUS AMERICANUS.

The fame Spanish Zebeck, about the last of October, fell in with the largest Algerine Zebeck belonging to the Moors, which they ain took after a very bloody Action; this Vessel was commanded by their Admiral, and was faid to have 100 Gentlemen Volunteers on board—and that the Commerce of Spain is much distressed by the Plate Ships being not arrived in Time.
