A L B E Sidy Mohamet Sadir, arrived yefterday in this city of Morocco, which he was charged to reid publicly, and the prefence of the Spaoilif millionaries, Bon Joseph Herera, commander in the spaoilif welfels in our port, the sleaides, (judges) and other principles in the spaoilif welfels in our port, the sleaides, (judges) and other principles. the sicaides, (judges) and other princial persons of our government. This sier contained, in substance, a That king of Morocco having no share in the sar between Spain and England, his light strictly commands all Moors, bis and to act in any hostile manner. beets, not to act in any hostile manner tenth the Spaniards, nor to cause unto tenth the spaniards, nor to cause unto tenthe least prejudice whatever, though ten if they should see them attack the then it mey mound bee them attack the legish in any of his majefty's ports, or the coast, and that in case the English should chuse to run their vessels on hore, they should not thereby be deemed hart, they should not thereby be deemed be have procured any degree of security. His majesty also strictly sorbids unto all Moors dwelling on the coast, to sire upon may spanish vessel, under what pretence serer, upon pain of incurring the most recess punishments; as it is his marriy's pleasure that the Spanish ships shall teken at full liberty to pursue their openions." And, sinally, his majesty adds, a That in case the English consul should be dipleased with these dispositions, and heald be willing to depart his majesty's schinions, he should be at liberty so to be, and the pacha, or goyesnot, of Tanper, is hereby ordered to let him go." It is said that this shrict and rigorous wider has been occasioned by the repeated benjaints of the English censul, Mr.

meder has been occasioned by the repeated bomplaints of the English censul, Mr. Lugier, against the conduct of the Spa-mards in our port, and on the coast of the kingdom; which complaints were alrifs accompanied by harsh reflexions and traits of revenue, more bordering upon hrais of revenue, more bordering upon incience, than inbmissive remonstration. Sirtona, Sept. 10. The La Flecha, hinder, and the Ard lio, brig, commanded by Don Baltata Hidalgo de Cimers, came into this road with a convoying Ferrol. On the 31st of August he look the Rodney, an English privateer, if 14 guns, and 33 men, after an engageministed from leven in the morning till find four in the afternoon. We had his and trees from fever in the antiming this first wounded, and the English had three hised and feven wounded. Both ships were much damaged bo h in their hulls and rigging. The prize was fent into the Andrea

Lisbon, Sept. 12. The court has fignethe treaty of armed neutrality, and has addred 14 fail of the line to be fitted out. Our court has received advice of a tresh prof of the audacity of the English navy, they have formerly exercised with the prience of our court could hold out no last, and was forced to fet bounds to the infolence. The fact is as follows:

American thip being purfued by an lighth privateer, took refuge under the man of the fort of the idland of Terraness of the court of the state of the my one of the Azores, the captain of the ma, one of the Axores, the captain of the printer feeing the American ship in security, withdrew and came to an anchor was fifance. Eut the commander of the satisfiance. Eut the commander of the mitter, ordered some armed boats to ap a strict watch during the night. His satisfiance were fully justified, by the printer of the satisfiance was satisfiance. Stratter feeing the American ship in security, withdrew and came to an anchor was stance. Eut the commander of the stantistic strategy of the stantistic strategy of the strat people return, lent another boat, which was taken likewise. But being soon after informed of, the event, her immediately put to lea, and meeting the next day with a frigate of his nation, they both returned, campnaded the fort, and did confiderable damage, and astenwards cut the cable of the American ship, and took her from her moorings in a place of security. from her meorings in a place of fecurity.

Fourteen more regiments are ordered to be fent to America. Also a party of the guards.

England is to be defended this year by the militia only.

OA. 12 When capt. Rofs left South-Carolina, lord Conwallis had begun his system of vengeance, so highly approved of by some persons here, by the execution of thirteen of his prisoners in sight of the army. Humanity revolts at the scenes of horror, blood and retaliation, which are now only opening in America.

Mr. Laurens is confined in the apart. ments formerly occupied by Mr. Wilkes, when in the Tower.

Instead of the rise of stocks, announced in the ministeral prints, as the confequence of the Carolina news, it is a fact, which looks like the refloration of the national good sense, that they have actually fallen one half per cent. on that account; for notwithstanding the peculiar good for-tune of lord Cornwallis, in meeting the enemy in fuch a fituation as to render their fuperior numbers of no avail, per-raps even of difute, it is evident to every thinking man, that this victory itself, with all its consequences, furnishes the strongest proof of the courage, resources and determined spirit of the people of America, at the same time that it proves the very small, incompetent force of the British, to conquer and hold so valt a distribution of posts as would be necessary in that country.

RICHMOND, February 17.

By the latest advices, lord Cornwallis had buint his waggons, in order that he might move with facility, and had pressed on as far as the Moravian towns. General Greene retired to Guilford court-house, meaning to avoid an engagement till such reinforcements might come in as would enfure fucceis.

The fuccess of our arms at the Cowpens was followed by the furprise of Georgetown, the garrison of which (laid to con-fift of 350 men, was all killed or taken; by a surprise of general Marion of Vando, where great flores were destroyed and 30 prisoners taken; and by the surprise at Marigrant's ferry, where several were killed and taken, and a great quantity of stores and some cloathing destroyed. If our countrymen turn out with spirit, the capture of lord Cornwallis's army is vitable as fate, and will close the scene of the southern war.

We can assure the public of the arrival of a French naval force in our bay, which may promite to rid us of our present enemysat Portsmouth.

Dear Sir, The above intelligence is just received, The above intelligence is jun received, and we embrace this opportunity of an express going to the fouthward of acquainting you therewith.

Sir, your most humble servants,

JOHN HANSON,

D. CARROLL.

The fame account comes also by way of the Havenna. To his excellency Thomas Sim Lee, Efq; governor of Maryland

From Rivington's New-York Royal Gazette. BY THE HONOURABLE BOARD OF DIRECTORS, OF ASSOCIATED LOYALISTS,

DECLARATION. FROM the commencement of the present unnatural rebellion, it has been often wished that some regular and sufficient fystem was adopted, for employing the zeal of that class of his majesty's loyal the 22st of that class or his majery's loyal fubjects in North-America, who, from their peculiar circumfances, were un-willing to become foldiers by profession, though ardently inclined to take up arms, and contribute their aid towards reducing the rebels. For want of fuch a system, the spontaneous exertions of the colonial loyalifts have been confined within limits no ways proportioned to the extent of their inclinations. But, narrow as their iphere of action has hitherto been, they abilities, as fully evinced the propriety and utility of giving further scope to that ipirit of enterprise by which they were actuated.

His majesty has therefore been induced to fignify his royal pleasure, that a board be established for embodying and employ-ing such of his faithful subjects in Northing such of his faithful subjects in North-America, as may be willing to associate under their direction, for the purpose of annoying the sea coasts of the revolted provinces, and distressing their trade, either in co-operation with his majesty's land and sea torces, or by making diversions in their favour, when they are carrying on operations in other parts."

In pursuance of his majesty's gracious intentions, his excellency Sir Henry Clinton, K. B. and commander in chief, has been pleased to issue a commission, under his hand and seal, constituting William Franklin, Esq. governor of New-Jersey, Josiah Martin, governor of North-

Jerfey, Josiah Martin, governor of North-Carolina, Timothy Ruggles, Daniel Coxe, George Duncan Ludlow, Edward Lut-wyche, George Rome, George Leonard, Anthony Stewart, and Robert Alexander, Esquires, a board of directors, for the conduct and management of this business.

That zeal which should animate every loyal subject of his majesty, and that sym-pathetic regard which the directors seel for their fellow-sufferers among the loy-alists of America, have determined them to undertake the execution of the commiffion; in performing this duty to the best of fovereigns, they are authorised to assure all those who may become associations ators of the following benefits and rewards for their encouragement, viz.
