them poor. If you mean to call us your red people, troops were in want of them." we should be glad to have commissions, metals and collars, as we might have all one talk, and be one people.

HOLACKTANATLEY'S TALK.

My uncle Piamataha, was a man who formerly talked to white people, and kept peace in his land. -And as he is dead, I give you my talk in his room, as all my warriors are by, and I have counselled tham .- Theretore defire, it you are our friends, to supply the nation as foon as possible with ammunition, that we may defend our land against our enemies, who are daily threatening us .-- This is the first time I have ever talked, and I am in hopes you will supply us, that we may no longer suffer.

PIOMINGE'S TALK.

I have talked several times to your beloved men, and have not forgot their talk, though they have forgot mine I fear, as they have not complied with them; which makes me ashamed, as my warriors tell me they have trufted to my talk, and have got poor; but to this talk I hope you-will give an immediate answer, and the goods will then come. We do not want your goods for nothing, but wish to pay you for them as we did before, which was the faving of our land.

The Cherokees have got cross with us, and sent bad talks to our land; if we had ammunition we would go to war with them. When our enemies formerly killed any of us, they used to say they got a good knife with our hair, but if they were to kill any of us now, they would get a very poor one. But hope it will not be the case long.

The GOVERNOR's TALK.

To the head men and warriors of the Chickelaw na-

I have, men, who, he says, are above him. We have given after all, received that, witch I trutt, I shall ever him and his fon presents also, this we do, brothers, have virtue enough to " efteem a great reward;" and to shew you we are rich and strong, and are willing I prize it too highly to fortest any part, by suffering published fix weeks in the Arryland Gazette. to impart our riches to you, because we are and my feilew citizens to remain under a militake, which. ought to be all brothers of one common father.

In your talks you mention, that we often pro- made. mised you goods, but never complied: This, brothers, has not been our faults; it has been owing to the Creek Indians being between you and us,-but it will now be better, and as the path is straight and smooth between us, we have no objection to your people coming in among us as friends and brothers, we shall salute you with a friendly shake by the hand, and fmoke your pipe

Should any people give you any bad talks against us, you must not believe them, and we do not wish you to believe any thing, but what comes from ourselves.

As foon as our traders can go among you with fatety, you will be supplied with goods on friendly terms; this, brothers, will tie us still failer with the strong chain. We send your warrior, Mingo, a Talkey, one of our people to your line, in order that he may go fafe to you, and give you this talk.

Now brothers, attend, we do not mean to deceive you, we wish to live in peace together with you, we will then smoke our pipe in friendship, and all take hold of each others hands as brothers and friends, should any dispute arise in future it will be your faults.

Brothers, farewell. The great man Mingo, a Tulkey, will tell you all how much we are inclined to respect you-he has drank the red rum out of our eup, and has eat of our corn, and in return we have moked out of his pipe. This, brothers, is the way we should treat you all, because we never treat our friends ill, we are commanded to do fo by the great Father of the Sun Farewell.

To the CITIZENS of MARYLAND.

THE occasion of this address may be deemed of too little importance to claim the public attention. But, as I have, unintentionally, les some of my sellow citizens into a militake, operating greatly to my prejudice, I cannot, in jultice to my character, foibear to fet them right.

Having received ample affurance, that the address under the fignature of " Thousands" contained the sense of a great number of the most respectable men in Baltimore-town, and that it was written and publithed, in contequence of an agreement amongst them to confer on Arithdes some public mark of ap- in the Maryland Gazette. probation; not only an apology is due to the writer, but he and they are entitied to my warmeit thanks, and most lively gratitude .-When the address was announced by advertisement only, the figuature, with the circumilance of the editors being unknown, induced me to expect rather an attack from a concealed foe, than a lincere panegyric. And, although conscious of the perfect integrity and zeal, with which I had always endeavoored to benefit my country, when I perufed the a !arefs, I was not vein enough to imagine that my me-By your beloved man, Mingo, a Tulkey, one of rits were not greatly over rated, provided it spoke the your warriors, we received your talks to our beloved language of incerity.
