Extract of a letter from New-York, written last Tuesday morning .

" The Montgomery, captain Bunyan, came up this day, after a long and tedious pallage. Not one word of Mr. Wignail nor any of his company."

Mr. BLANCHARD the bold Æronaut, agreeably to his advertisement, at five minutes patt ten o'clock yefterday morning, rose with a BALLOON from the Prison-court in this city, in presence of an immense concourse of spectators, there assembled on the occasion. The process of inflating the balloon commenced about nine o'clock .- Several cannon were fired from the dawn of day until the moment of elevation; a band of music played during the time of inflating, and when it began to rife, the majeltical fight was truly awful and interesting,-the flow movement of the band, added solemnity to the scene. Indeed the attention of the multitude was so absorbed, that it was a considerable time before silence was broke by the acclamations which succeeded.

As soon as the clock had struck ten, every thing being punctually ready, Mr. Blanchard took a respectful leave of all the spectators, and received from the hands of the president a paper, at the same time the president spoke a few words to this bold adventurer, who original and composed by Mr. Taylor. immediately leaped into his boat, which was painted blue and ipangled; the balloon was of a yellowith coloured filk highly varnished, over which there was a strong net-work-Mr. Blanchard was dressed in a plain blue suit, a cocked hat and white feathers. As toon as he was in the boat, he threw out some ballait, and the balloon began to ascend flowly and perpendicularly, whilit Mr. Blanchard waved the colours of the United States and alto those of the French republic, and flourished his hat to the thousands of citizens from every part of the country, who stood gratified and Allx. Binyon, Calvert county. astonished at his intrepidity. After a tew minutes, the balloon rose to an immense height and then shaped al gentlemen galloped down the point road, but soon lost fight, of it, for it moved at the rate of twenty miles an hour.

tickets, were afflicted with considerable regret, at not having been immediately present in the Prison-court to see the preparations, and to witness the undaunted countenance of the man who thus sublimely dared to foar through the regions of the air. And it is reported that a number of ladies and gentlemen intend to open another and more extensive subscription at Oellers's, to indemnify Mr. Blanchard for the expences he has incurred, which it is said are exceedingly greater than the amount of the first subscription.

Anxiety for the safety of the Æronaut was painted on every face from the time the citizens lost fight of him, and various were the conjectures as to the place where he would descend. About half after fix o'clock last evening we were happy to meet Mr. Blanchard again in this city, going to pay his respects to the president of the United States .- He informed us, that his ærial voyage lasted forty-fix minutes, in which time he ran over a space of more than fifteen miles and then descended a little to the eastward of Woodbury in the state of New-Jersey-where he took a carriage and returned to Cooper's ferry—and was at the president's, as we have already mentioned at half past fix o'clock last even-
