POR the relief and cure of Hernia or Rapture! This Burkical instrument is new to well known to the Medical profession, and to extensive used by unfortunate sufferer labouring under the disease of Hernia, that a particular account of its mechanical construction of its surgical effects is thought imprecious. The subjoined remarks from Physicians and DR. HULL'S TRUSS. The subjoined remarks from Physicians and Surgeons of higa respectability in our country, are the results of much practical experience in the use and application of this trass.

James Thateher, M. D. authur of the Mod.

James Insteher, M. D. author of the Mod-ern Practice, in his second edition, under the subject of Hernia, remarks "De. A great many upon whom I have applied your trusses, have been radically cured; and some of these, were cases of long standing, where all other trusses had failed. I send you a note of thanks from Mr. P. a citizen of great: respectability, who was cured of a bad scratal rupture, of thirty-five years standing, by wearing one of your trusses for two years. He had worn or ther trusses twenty nine years. His son, also, aged 16 years, ruptured from his infancy, was cured under my care in less than two years.— A case of scrotal rupture, of twenty years stan-ding, in a labouring man forty years old, was cured under my notice by one of your trusses in six months. A case of groin rupture, from lifting, in a labouring man, thirty years old, on whom I applied one of your trusses, the day after the injury, was cured in three months—Experience alone, can make known to the Surn the full powers and excellence of these ruments. THE LEGACY OF THE ROSES. The following fine verses are by Miss Landon, and ar founded on the fact reported by Mr. Crofton Crook er, that 'ta person who died at Barnes, left an annu al sum to be Isid out in roses planted on his grave ol! plant them above me, the soft, the bright,

The touched with the sunser's crimon light,
The warm with the earliest breath of spring.
The aweet with the saven of the west wind's wing;
Let the green bough and the red leaf ware—
Plant the glad rose tree upon my grave. Why should the mournful willow weep
J'er the quiet rest of a dreamless sleep?
Weep for life, with its toil and care,
Its crime to shun, and its sorrow to hear;
Let tears and the a gus of tears be shed
Over the living, not over the dead.

Plant not the express nor yet the yew; Too heavy their shallow, too gloomy their hue, For one who sleeping in faith at d in love, With a hope that is treasured in heaven above; In a holy trust are my senes laid-Cast ye no darkness, throw we no shade. Last ye no dragness, throw ye no shade.

Plant the green sod with the crimson rose,

Let my friends rejoice o'er my calm repose;

Let my memory be like the odours they shed,

My hope like the promise of early red;

Let strangers, too, share in their breath & their bloom;

Plant ye the bright roses over my tours.

VISIT TO AN ARAB HAREM.

Narrative of a journey overland from England, by the Continent of Europe, Egypt, and the Red Sea, to India, including a residence there, and voyage home; in the years 1825, '26, '27, '23. By Mrs. Col. Elinwood. Having landed at the port of Hodeida, Mrs. Elmwood had an opportunity of visiting an Arab Harem, and as her account of the ladies is the most amusing thing in the book, (Vol I.) we shall content ourselves with extracting it.

"In C- 's absence I always remained in my own room, but one evening, as I went upon my terrace to enjoy the fresh sea-breeze which was just setting in, a casement which I had never before observed slowly opened, and a black hand appeared waving significantly at mo. Improceed with some degree of fear, I immediately retreated, but on looking fear, I immediately retreated, but on looking again the wavering was repeated, and several women peeping out, beckoned me to them, making signs that all the men were out of the way. Whilst I was hesitating, a negro woman and a boy came out upon another terrace, and vehemently importuned me by signs to go to them. I had just been reading Ludy Marry W. Montague's description of a Turkish harem, an opportunity night never again ocharem, an opportunity might never again oc-cur of visiting an Arab one. After some con-flict between my fears and my curiosity, the latter conquered, and down I went, the boy meeting me at the foot of the stairs, and lifting up a curtain, he introduced me into a small interior court, at the door of which were a number of women's slippers, & inside were about a dozen females clothed in silk trowsers, a number of women a supperse, and fastened in front, and turbans very tastefully put on.

They received me with the utmost cordiality and delight, the principal lady, Zacccara, as I found she was called, making me sit down by her side, carelessly taking my hand, presenting me with a nosegay, &cc. after taking my hand, previously tasting it, offered me coffee, which was brought on a silver tray, in the usual beautiful little chiua cups. It was, however, so perfumed that I could scarcely drink it. She did the honours, and appeared as superior to the others in manners and address, as any English lady would be to her maid servants. Her figure was light and slender, her features pretty and delicate, her countenance lively and intelligent, whilst her manners, which were perfectly soft and pleascountenance invery and intelligent, whilst her manners, which were perfectly soft and pleasing, were at the same time both affectionate and sprightly. The other women crowled round me with great empressment; by signs round me with great empressment; by signs we kept up a very animated conversation, & when we could not quite comprehend each other's meaning, we all laughed heartily.—
They asked me where I came from, whether I They asked me where I came from, whether I had any ornaments, any children, &c. exhibiting theirs with great glee. They were amazingly struck with my costume, which they examined so minutely, that I began to think I amined so minutely, that a begin to thick a should have had to undress to satisfy their curiosity; but whatmost amused them, was the circumstance of my gown fastening behind, which mystery, they examined over and over again; and some broad French tucks at the bottom seemed much to astonish them, as they could not discover their use. They asked me tom seemed much to astonish them, as they could not discover their use. They asked me the names of every thing I had on, and when, to please them, I took off my cap, and let down my long hair, Zaccara, following my example, immediately took off her turban and shewed me heres the negro woman, who seemed the with

I sat with them some time, and it was with difficulty they consented to allow me to leave them at last—indeed, not ill I had made them understand that my cowasjee' wanted me. Cowasjee's claims they seemed to understand completely, and, on my rejoining the gentlemen, if I were amused with their description of the tournament, you may conceive how astonished they were to learn that I had actually visited the harem.
