CENTENNIAL ANNIVERSARY. The Vermont Chronicle says, that "the 4th of October next will complete the third century since the printing of the first English Bible was finished." This was Coverdale's Bible, was finished." This was Coverdale's Bible, published at Zurich. In these three centuries, how extensive and glorious have been the influences of the English version of this blessed book! How many hundreds of thousands, or rather millions, in Great Britain and the United States, have been freed by this charter of human rights and salvation, from the chains of popish despotism and ecclesiastical tyranny, and have been led by its heavenly rays from the night of superstition and false religion, to confide in the Son of God, the Saviour of the World, who is THE TRUTH AND THE LIGHT! How many under its blessed guidance have finished their course on earth in faith, and hope, and joy, and entered into rest, where they are now rejoicing around the throne "with joy un-

DREADFUL EFFECT OF LIGHTNING. The last Worcester Spy furnishes us with the follow ng melancholy details.

During the shower in the afternoon of Sunday last, 5th inst, the house of Solomon King, in the western part of Sutton, was struck by lightning, and Mr. King and his wife were instantly killed. The circumstances attending this melancholy canalty, as pear as we can learn, were the following:—The lightning passed down mond having received the mournful intelligence the chimney of the house and entered a room in which

King had just left the room and gone into the early, hat the purpose, it was supposed, of shutting the outside door. The electric fluid in its descent divided into two brunches, one of which passing out through the entry, struck down Mr. King in its progress. The neighbors who were in the room seeing him falling, spring to his assistance, but he had sunk to the floor before they reached him. The fluid went out through the door by the well into a hog pen, throwing considerable rubbish into the well, and killing a sow and four out of eight pigs in the pen. The other branch of the fluid passed into the cupboard, demelishing its contents, and in its course struck Mrs. King and her son while sitting in their chairs. The latter seeing his mother's cap on fire, endeavored to rise to go towards her, but found himself unable to more. The other persons on coming back isto the room, did not at first notice her situation, but soon in a short time. There were only slight marks of vio-in a short time.
