

presented Mr. Corwin, Mr. Pennington, Mr. E. J. Morris, for Speaker.

Yesterday Mr. Hindman's close question brought all the Republicans of Ohio to the floor, and among them Mr. Sherman.

Nothing, however, was elicited from one of them, except to throw light upon the issue of the contest.

Mr. Sherman refused to make any explanation or apology about his recommendation of the Helper book.

Mr. Corwin, in fulfillment of a promise to let you hear occasionally what is transpiring in this political arena,

I have determined to devote a line or two in this way, for no other purpose than to testify to the death of news which now pervades the Federal Metropolis.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27, 1860.

Mr. Corwin: In fulfillment of a promise to let you hear occasionally what is transpiring in this political arena,
