

(except such parts of the said act as relate to the retailing of liquors by merchants or storekeepers, or at horse-races) shall remain in full force for ever, as to the granting licences on the eastern shore, and the money hereafter collected for ordinary licences granted on the eastern shore, and paid to the treasurer of the said shore, shall remain in his hands subject to the orders of the visitors and governors of Washington college, to be drawn according to the directions of this act.—1784, c. 7, § 5.

19. The regulations and provisions made in the act of 1780, c. 24, (except such parts thereof as relate to the retailing of liquors by merchants, or store keepers, or at horse-races,) shall remain for ever, as to the granting licences on the western shore (except in the city of Annapolis and the precincts thereof;) and the money hereafter collected for ordinary licences granted on the western shore, and paid to the treasurer of the said shore, shall remain in his hands, subject to the orders of the visitors and governors of Saint John's college, to be drawn according to the directions of this act.—1784, c. 37, § 22.

20. During the continuance of the original act to which this is a supplement, it shall be lawful for the chief justice, or either of the associate justices, of any county court in this state, to grant licences to such persons as they shall think fit to be ordinary keepers, for keeping of ordinaries in such places, within the counties where such chief justice, or associate justices, respectively, reside, for the ease and convenience of the inhabitants and travellers, as to them respectively shall seem proper; which licences shall continue in force until the end of the next county court after the same shall be granted, and for the taking of which the ordinary keepers shall respectively pay in proportion to the time between their taking thereof and the end of the next court aforesaid.—1791, c. 58, § 2.

21. Every person who applies for a licence under this act shall enter into a recognizance before the justice who grants the said licence, with security, in the same sum, and in the same manner, and on the same condition, and shall be subject to the same regulations, orders, forfeitures and penalties, to be recovered in the same manner as are prescribed by the said original act with respect to ordinary keepers licenced under the same.—ibid. § 3. See Commissioners of the tax, 2.

ORPHANS AND ORPHANS COURTS.

THE law on the above subjects is fully provided for, by the Testamentary system of November session, 1798, which system repeals all acts inconsistent with, or repugnant to the same, particularly the acts instituting Orphans courts; however, a reference is made to such acts as were considered by the Compiler in force previous thereto, to wit: 1715, c.
