

Of the above, none shall be taken from the library by any person without special permission in writing from the governor or president of the council, the president of the senate, and speaker of the house of delegates, except in cases where the presiding officer of either house may require any of them for the immediate use of the house.

15. It shall be the duty of the librarian, three days before the termination of every session of the general assembly, to present to any member of the general assembly, a list of the books he has received from the library and not returned, and in like manner, a list to any judge, and on the last day of the session, to members of the council.

16. The librarian shall one day before the termination of every session of the legislature, furnish the speaker of the house of delegates with a list of the names of such members of the legislature as shall not have returned the books received from the library, together with a description and value of such books, and also, of the value of the set to which they may belong, and the amount of fines with which they may stand charged; and it shall be the duty of the speaker, to hand such list to the committee of claims, who in settling the accounts of any such delegate or member of the senate, shall retain a sum equal to double the value of the books retained and if they shall form a part of a set, then double the value of a whole set, and also a sum equal to the fines with which such member may stand charged.

17. Whenever any senator or delegate shall obtain leave of absence for the remainder of any session of the legislature, it shall be the duty of the speaker of the house of delegates, of the president of the senate, as the case may be, to ascertain of the librarian whether such senator or delegate shall have returned the books which he may have received from the library, and have paid the fines which may have been incurred by him; and in case of failure the same deduction shall be made in the settlements of the accounts of such senator or delegate as are directed in the 16th rule.

18. The librarian shall collect all fines and forfeitures accruing upon notes given for books taken from the library.

19. All monies arising from fines and forfeitures, shall constitute a part of the library fund, and shall be paid when required, to the joint committee of the two houses of the general assembly, who are charged with the disposition of that fund.
