

Should your honours be of that opinion, the council of safety may have orders to discharge them: should there be others arrested under similar circumstances, the council of safety may have orders to discharge them as a matter of course.

By order,

G. DUVALL, cl. ho. del.

On a second reading the bill to promote the recruiting service, the question was put, that instead of the latter part of the third section thereof, which follows after the words "circumstance of the owner," the following be inserted: "And in case the owner should refuse, or the person appointed to collect and the owner should disagree as to the number of blankets to be spared as aforesaid, yet the said collector shall summon one or more reputable freeholders, who may enter and shall ascertain the number of blankets to be spared by the owner as aforesaid, and also on oath appraise the same, if the collector and owner cannot agree on the price of blankets so taken; and the collector shall give a certificate to the owner thereof, or his assigns, for the value ascertained either by agreement or by appraisement, as aforesaid, which shall be paid by either of the treasurers of this state?" Carried in the negative.
