It appears that he was assist-Levis nover "closes out old stock," for he ing his father, who was cutting clover seed has none on hand, but his prices are always with a reaper. While in the act of moving some impediment just before the cuttingbar, the horses, from some unknown cause, started, pulling the knives directly upon him. The little fellow succeeded in getting one limb over the bar, but the other anfortunately was caught in the guards .-It being some time before the horses could be stopped, his foot and ankle were fearfully cut and lacerated. Drs. Tuft and Frazer, of Elkton, were at once summoned, and after a careful examination of the case determined to give him the chances of recovery without amputation. Although much prostrated at the time, the little fellow is now doing as well as could be expected.

Building Society Calculations .- Mr. B. E. Lodore has worked out, and put into the form of a tabular statement, the monthly instalments, in lieu of the discount plan .-His calculations are based on a premium of one dollar, and one dollar and a quarter per share per month. These tables appear to be correct, but the multitude of figures they require, makes it inconvenient to publish them entire. We, however, give below a table of the receipts at the last payments in each year; together with the worth $200.

The calculations are based on 1000 shares of stock, with 25 cents "initiation fee," which makes the receipts on the opening night of the Association $1250. We give the table calculated at a premium of $1.25

9th year reach the $200,000, or $200 a share which closes the Society. Hence, according to this table, the first series of the new Society would pay out in 8 years and 7 months, if the premiums were uniform at $1.25 per share. At a uniform premium of $1.00, it would require nearly 10 years to reach $200 per share. According to the above tables, the estimate published in last week's Whig was in error, in not having taken into the account the investment of the 30 per cent. premium, which would add to the value of the stock of the Society, upwards of $400 in the sale of $1,000 cash. The sales of funds in the new Association, according to these calculations, should realize a premium of from $1.00 to $1.25 and upwards to equal the earnings of the old Society. Appointment of Teachers.—The new school law appears to have been framed build up a first class School which will with a purpose of having it as ambiguous as possible. A rumpus was had between the School Commissioner of the Second District, the patrons of the School and the District Board, over the appointment of assistant teacher for the Bayard School .-The School Commissioner claimed and exercised authority to appoint an assistant teacher, while the District Board disputed his right to do so; and the case was referto put up the building for $11,500, and red to the County Board which was also divided in its opinion, and Dr. R. C. addressed a letter to Hon, Isaac D. Jones, Attorney General of the State, for an opinion. The following is the reply:

STATE OF MARYLAND, ATTORNEY GONERAL'S OFFICE, BALTIMORE, August 23d, 1870.

Baltimone, August 23d, 1870.)

R. C. Mackall, Esq.:

Dear Sir—In reply to yours of 22d inst.,

I have to say that the law makes no distinction as to Principal and Assistant Teachers. Under chapter 8 no person shall be employed as a teacher unless qualified as set forth in 1st section of this chapter. By section 2 "Teachers shall be appointed by the Board of District School Commissioners." I think these two secpointed by the Board of District School Commissioners." I think these two sections apply to all teachers, and if more than one is necessary in a school, their respective duties may be regulated by directions issued by the Board of District School Commissioners, under the power of supervision conferred by section 3 of chapter 1 of the School law. f the School law. I remain, very respectfully and truly yours

Mr. F. S. Everist, School Commissioner of the Seventh District, addressed a letter of inquiry to Mr. M. A. Newell, President of the Board of State School Commissioners, in regard to the appointing power, and received the following reply, which seems to be the very opposite of Mr. Jones' opin-

BALTIMORE, August 27, 1870.

F. S. Everist:

Dear Sir-Your favor of the 24th inst. County Board, the remedy is plain—refuse to pay the salary. There cannot be the shadow of a doubt on the subject. It may seem strange that the District Board should appoint the Principal and the County Board the Assistant, but that is the law, and the plain duty of good citizens is to obey it. If any further action is needed to sustain you, you may depend on being sustained.

M. A. Newell,
President.

As the case stands there appears to be a nuddle in the Democratic School Law uneconcilable by the chiefs in authority. It s a fair specimen of Democratic legislation, which seems to be proficient in only one branch of law making, and that is in the matter of appropriations. There is no conflict in any of their acts to take money out of the treasury.

As the case stands there is a fair opportunity for a continuation of the fight over Bayard School. Mr. Carpenter can defy of backing from the President of the State R. C. Mn. Ewing—Dear Sir:—Allow me, through your paper, to correct an error which the editor of The Democrat and the Bayard school clique has fallen into in regard to the appointment of assistant teachers. They seem to think that a letter published in last week's Democrat above the signature of Isaac D. Jones settles that question. I want them to know that I will never give up the right to appoint assistants until the question is settled by the State School Board. If that Board decides the question also to the other than the may MR. EWING-Dear Sir:-Allow me, the question adverse to me, then they may the question adverse to me, then they may crow. If my opponents will turn to chapter 3 section 4 of the School law, they will see who the law says has a right to settle this question. The idea of people thinking that I will give up rights that the law clearly gives me, simply because Isaac D. Jones thinks that certain sections means certain things, is ridiculous. Do they suppose I cannot read for myself? The very fact of I. D. Jones saying he thinks, shows that he is not certain himself. Thinking, and not knowing what the law means, is that he is not certain himself. Thinking, and not knowing what the law means, is the cause of all this trouble. I never went into this thing expecting to gain laurals; I was forced into it by the Trustees of the Bayard school; and I want them to know that I will not give it up until it is settled by the State School Board, and shall stand by the assistants that I appoint when pay-day comes, because I now believe, and have from the first time I read the law, that I had the right to make the appointments. Geo. R. Carpenter.

--- "Did even then the visions of the sugar plums he now enjoys flit before his imagination?"

On the above quotation taken from The Whig as a text, The Democrat makes a very pretty discourse. This was only half the sentence, and but a prelude to what folpublic would also-to hear a sermon on the entire text, which we give below; or at least on the remaining clause, which we italicise :
