Lecture. - Rev. A. A. Willetts, of Philadel phia, will deliver a lecture in the Odd Fellows' Hall, on Thursday evening, the 27th instant, under the auspices of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics of this town. The subject will be: "The Age and the Man for It." Mr. Willetts is well known to our people, and the announcement of his name is sufficient to ensure a large audience.

Finch, of Philadelphia, are expected to be present and add to the programme some choice pieces. Proceeds for the benefit of 8. S. Labrary. We bespeak for this entertainment a full house.

The Game Law .- From the twentieth day of October to the fifteenth day of January, is the time fixed by law for the shooting and trapping of partridges. As the time is near at hand, we presume it will not be long before our friends of sporting propensities will be "trying their luck" at bagging this favorite game. For the benefit of those concerned, we give below that portion of the law on the subject:-"No persons shall trap, shoot, or in any manner catch or kill any partridges between the fifteenth day of January and the twentieth of October; nor any woodcock between the first day of February and the tenth day of June; nor any pheasants between the first day of February and the twelfth day of August, in each year."

The Lecture Season.—The Lecture season is fast approaching. Are the people of Elkton to have the moral and intellectual entertainment of a course of lectures offered to them this winter? The taste for lectures has to be cultivated, and those who have the improvement of our citizens at heart should be willing to make some sacrifices to promote a taste for the popular lecture. The lecture will not take like a "monkey show" or circus with the rabble, but will steadily gain ground as the taste of the public becomes cultivated by familiarity with this species of public entertainment.

If a proper effort is made, we think a sufficient fund can be procured by subscriptions to insure the committee from loss, and perhaps a profit may be made out of the venture, if a judicious selection is had, and the lectures placed ten days or two weeks apart. The last course we had was completely spoiled by crowding. If a lecturer can't be got for the night he is wanted, and no arrangement can be made for a sufficient time between lectures to elapse, it is better to let him slide. A few first-class lectures is better than double the farm, one of which has a revolving made board.

the Farm, one of which has a revolving number of make-shifts.

Every moral and intellectual entertainment that is placed before the public, serves to elevate and lead in the right direction public opinion and public morals. While the community is infested with groggeries which hold out their inviting pleasures to the young, like the poison flower of the ocean, it should be the constant study to provide amusements which would counteract the baneful influence, sown broad cast and placed at the door step of every family in the land, and which lure and entangly like flies in the spider's net, by thousands, the young.

The crowd on the grounds on entering exceeded our most sanguine expectations, considering the threatening nature of the weather.
