The suggestion made by a somewhat distinguished jurist that the railroads be allowed to determine and fix for themselves reasonable rates doubtless meets with the cordial approval of all the roads. But the people evidently think different. They rightly regard the roads as public carriers who are in duty bound to consider the interests of the public, and therefore the public reasonably holds that through an Interstate Commission or some other competent authority it should have the power to decide as to reasonable rates.

Considering the very important and even essential part that milk plays in the dietary of every family, the action of the great milk firms that supply New York, Chicago and other large cities in abnormally raising the price of milk is nothing less than criminal. It is as another and one of the worst instances of greed, for it is a virtual robbing of the poor. Already some of these firms have been making a profit of twenty and twenty-five per cent upon what is mainly watered stock, but even that enormous profit does not satisfy them.

Vice haunts itself denarily whenever it is possible to do so, and its possibility has been made easy by the supineness and oftentimes the connivance of the authorities, whose duty it was to uproot vice and enforce law. But in recent years vice is being badly hit as an improved public conscience puts better men into office and demands that they maintain and put the law in operation. The gamblers, who the other day openly defied the governor of Indiana by attempting to start a gambling resort in that state a few miles from Chicago, are now whor and sadder in that they realize that when an

MISSIONARY MOVEMENT

The Work Progressing Along Encouraging Lines in Queen Annes.

The Laymen's Missionary Movement, which is world-wide, and which has for its aim the evangelization of the world in this generation, with an adjunct in Queen Annes county, is meeting with encouraging prospects. The local organization has appointed its committees, etc., as outlined in the last issue of the Observer, and will, with vim and energy, push this evangelization scheme to the uttermost parts.

Many people, not previously acquainted in the fullest sense with missions, are awakening to the fact that a responsibility rests upon them which they cannot rightfully, as Christians, shirk.

Hon. John W. Foster, ex-Secretary of State says: "My observations and experience have greatly impressed me with the salutary influence of Christian missions upon the nations of the Orient. The Protestant educational institutions at Constantinople, Beirut and other places have had a distinctly elevating effect upon political and social affairs in Mohammedan lands. The early Christian missionaries in China and Japan were of incalculable value as a medium of diplomatic intercourse between the native officials and the Western powers."

Col. Chas. Lenby, for twelve years United States Minister to China, says: "I made a study of mission work in China. On a man-of-war I visited almost every open port in China. Believe nobody when he sneers at missionaries. My acquaintance with missionaries of all denominations in China has taught me that they are doing good to humanity. They are the forerunners of commerce and diplomacy; they are pioneers of progress. They blaze the way for art and science and sound morality. The best men and the best intellects among foreigners in China respect and esteem them."

Admiral Belknap, of the United States Navy, says: "I assert it to be a fact beyond contradiction that there is not a ruler, official, merchant, or any other person from emperors, viceroys, judges, governors, counsellors, generals, ministers, admirals, merchants and others, down to the lowest coolies in China and Japan, Siam and Korea, who, in their association or dealings with their fellow-men in that quarter of the globe, are not indebted every day of their lives to the work and achievement of the missionaries."

Marquis Ito, Premier of Japan, and controller of Korea, says: "Japan's

Numerous Other Displays

Besides the apple exhibits, there were numerous other displays, among which were:

Thomsen Chemical Company Baltimore, Maryland, had an exhibit of chemicals and apparatus for spraying, showing leaves affected by fruit insects in both pictures and real life. There were also numerous other small exhibits of insect destroyers. The trees in the Court House green were sprayed with one of the gasoline engine sprayers on Wednesday.

George H. McKay, of Philadelphia, had a cold storage exhibit showing how radishes, cherries, mushrooms, cucumbers, huckleberries, pears, strawberries and other fruit and vegetables could be kept all winter.

William H. Wood, of Centreville, had an exhibit of three pairs of high bred pigeons, including the Dragon, Homer and Antwerp. He also had white rabbits on exhibition.

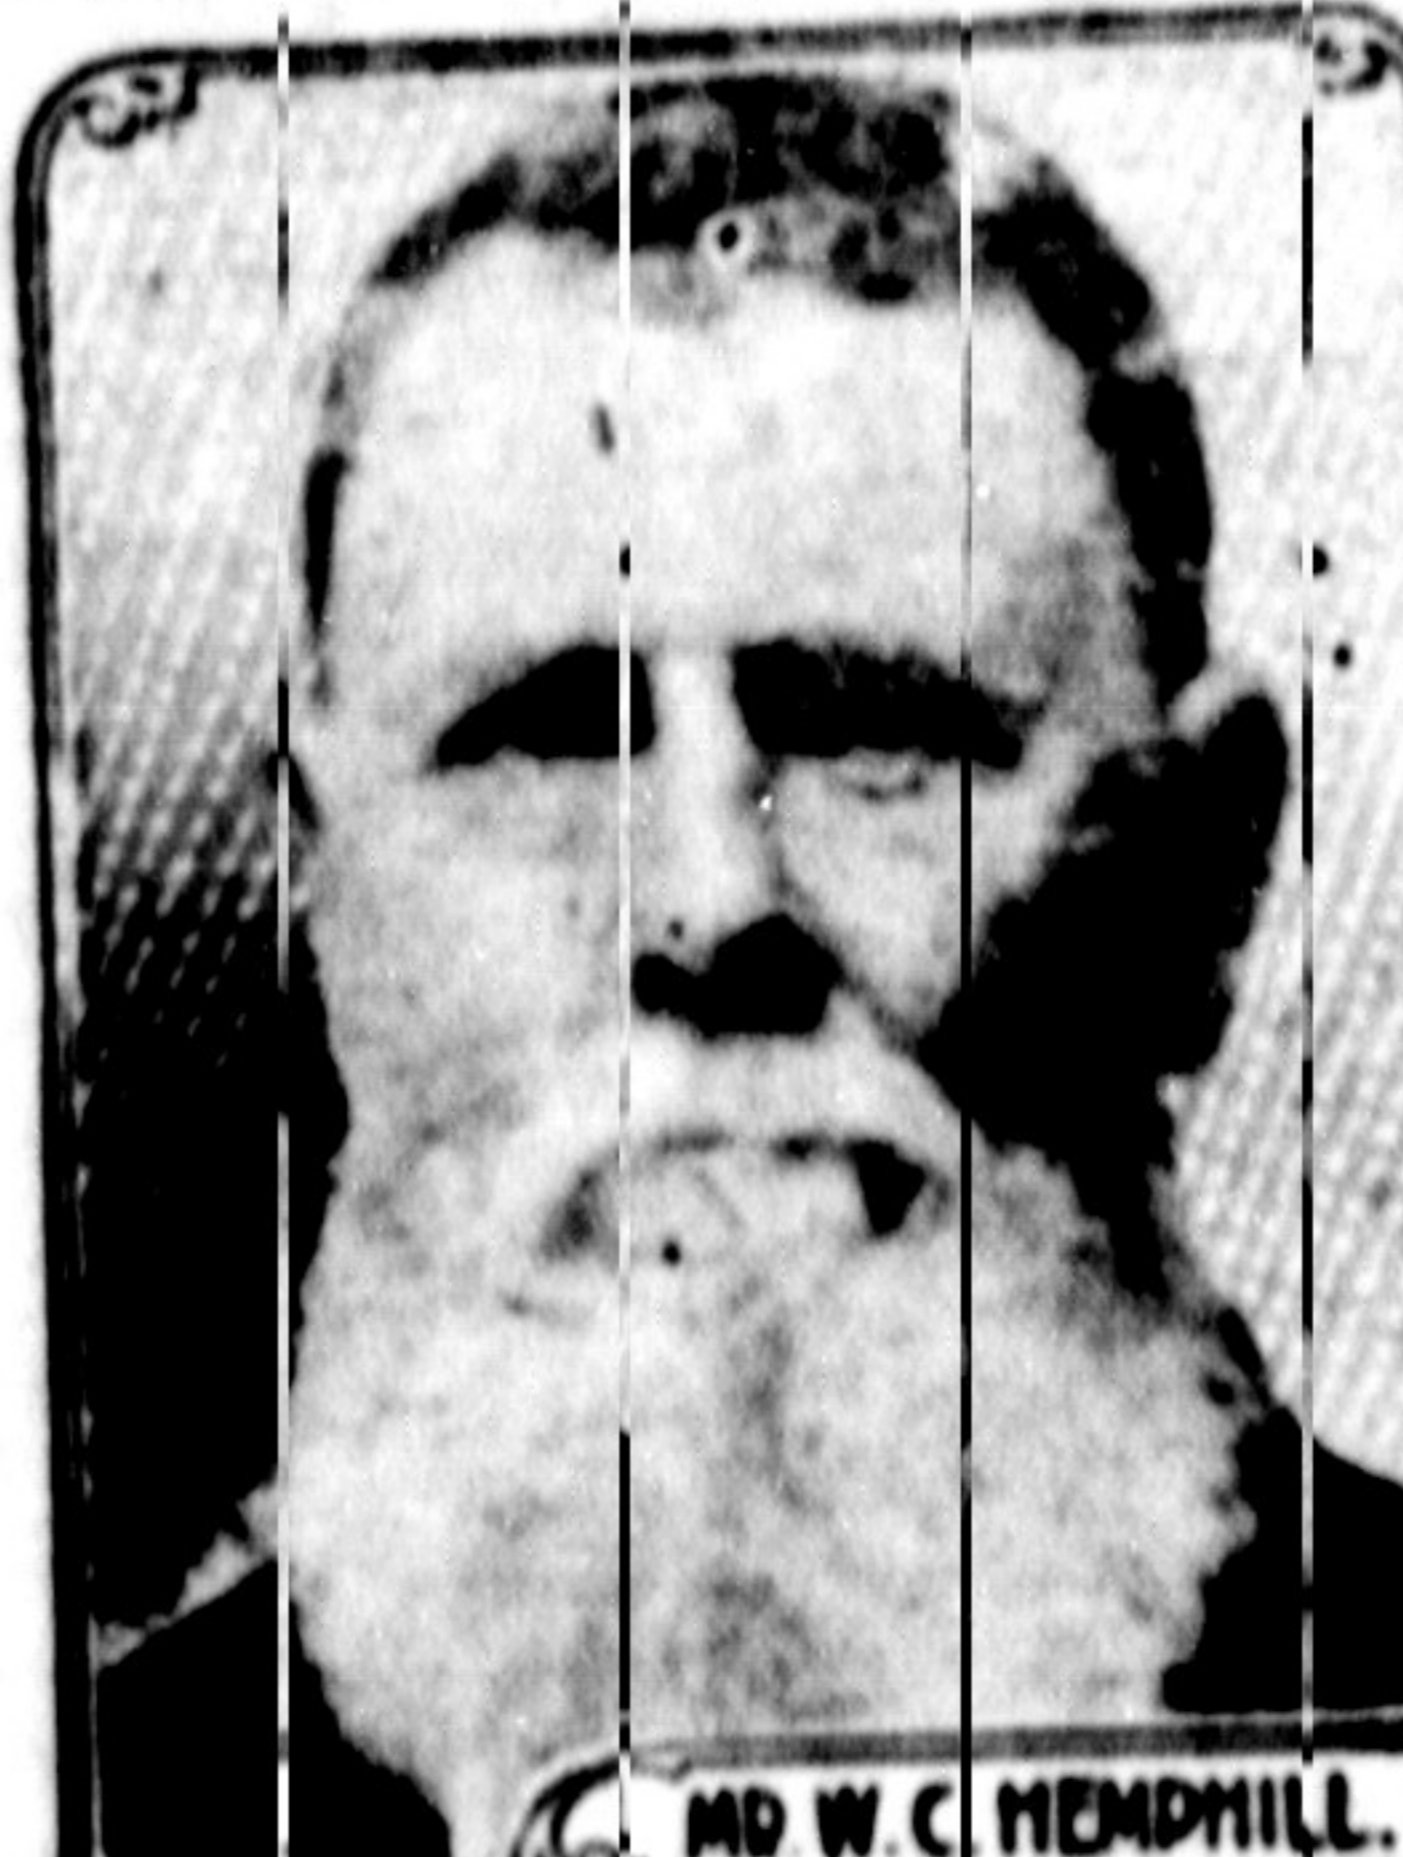

The Stewart Fruit Company, of Baltimore, had a handsome exhibit of tropical fruits, and disposed of the entire stock before leaving. Their display was composed of Spanish onions, pineapples, oranges, grapes, sweet potatoes, cabbage, chestnuts, squashes, potatoes, cranberries, raisins, dates, apples and peanuts.

Mr. R. W. Thomas, of Centreville, had on exhibit of some of his well-known corn, the weights being as follows: Best 10 ears weighing 13 pounds and 1 ounce; second best, 10 ears weighing 12 pounds and 8 ounces; third best 10 ears weighing 10 pounds and 1 ounce.

John A. Trundie, of Centreville, had Grand Palace Celery on display; D. B. Stewart, of Chester town, exhibited Green Mountain potatoes, and E. B. Emory, of Centreville, had Irish Gobblers, from Indian town. J. McC. Roebuck had Dietz and Currell Prolific wheat.

Grandmothers and Grandfathers Who Believe in Per-una.

"I CAN recommend Peruna as a good medicine for chronic catarrh of the stomach and bowels. I have been troubled with it severely for over a year, and also a cough."

"Now my cough is all gone, and all the distressing symptoms of catarrh of the stomach and bowels have disappeared. I still recommend it to all as a rare remedy."—Mrs. F. E. Little, Tolono, Ill.

"I HAD catarrh of the stomach, bowels and lower internal organs. Had a great deal of pain in my right hip, which felt like rheumatism. Also, pain in my internal organs. The water was highly colored, my back was weak, was constipated, and very restless."

"I commenced to take Peruna according to directions, and began to improve. I have taken ten bottles of Peruna and I am cured."—Mr. W. C. Hemphill, Louisville, Miss.

MRS. H. G. GREEN and family, of Lewis Creek, Ind., write: "We cannot express to you our thanks for what Peruna has done for mother."

"When she began your medicine she was not able to be up all day, but now she is helping with the work and at present has gone on a visit. Her health is improved in general. No discharges. Good appetite. Sleeps well and looks well."

"BY following your instructions and taking your Peruna and Manilla I am cured of catarrh."

"I had catarrh for twelve years and quite a bad cough so I could not sleep nights. I do not have any cough now. If I feel anything in the throat I take a swallow of Peruna and I am all right."

"Mr. W. D. Smith, Sr., 210 Fore St., 1137 Huron, Mich."
