Harper's Magazine for June, 1877

Harper's Magazine for June is a beautiful number, and for the uniform excellence of its illustrations and the variety and interest of its reading-matter, it deserves comment as being a step in advance of anything hitherto undertaken.

The readers of the Magazine will find Mr. Benjamin's paper on Contemporary Art in Germany even more novel and interesting than his previous contributions on English and French Art. He gives a concise but satisfactory account of the Art Schools of Munich, Vienna, and Berlin; and the text is illustrated with reproductions of the best pictures by German artists, and with portraits of Kaulbach, Piloty, Lenbach, Max, Defregger, Makart, and Knaus. The illustrations represent the best work of leading American engravers.

No thorough description has ever hitherto been published of the Andro-scoggin Lakes, and Mr. Edward Abbott's paper on this subject, with its picturesque illustrations, will show that the region has unusual attractions for the artist as well as the sportsman.

Since the performance at Bayreuth of Richard Wagner's Niebelungen Ring trilogy, there has been unusual popular interest in the story of the Niebelungen Lay. In this Number, Miss Leda M. Schoonmaker, a cultivated German writer, gives a very graphic outline of the story and its principal characters, which are also rendered by the masterly pencil of Mr. Fredericks in eight effective illustrations.

Mr. William A. Rideing contributes a paper—also finely illustrated—on the Wheeler Survey in Nevada. He describes the work of the survey, and the wonders of Lake Tahoe and Virginia City.

Gibraltar—its history, its natural features, and its modern political and military significance—is the subject of a paper as interesting as a romance, by George M. Towle. The illustrations are drawn by Samuel Colman, the artist, who has done him off and the subject ample justice.

Those who have read with so much interest Mrs. Treat's papers on Our Familiar Birds will heartily welcome Mr. H. D. Minot's attractive and excellently illustrated paper on Birds' Nests.

Lovers of downright humor will be delighted with Marc. E. Cook's story, Moses Clymer's Business—illustrated by Abbey—so graphically presented that it seems more like reality than the fiction that, of course, it is.

Dr John W. Draper continues his important series of illustrated papers, Popular Exposition of Some Scientific Experiments, treating in this Number the methods of bringing phantom impressions into view, and the phosphorescence of diamonds and other bodies.

Fiction has, as usual, its generous allotment of space. Charles Reade's remarkable novel A Woman-Hater and Blackmore's Erema are continued. Mrs. Frank M'Carthy's short story, The Professor's Victim, is well told, and is as novel as it is dramatic. A large installment of Julian Hawthorne's Garth—full of interesting dramatic situations—concludes this very original novel.

Mrs. Mace, the author of Israil, contributes a poem, entitled A Dream-land City. Miss Fannie R. Robinson's An Order for a Cameo is a poem of thoughtful meaning. William Gibson, in his poem La Festa dello Statuto, enters fully into the spirit of the festival.

The Editorial Departments furnish, as usual, a well-organized body of entertaining and instructive matter.

FRIDAY

The success of the Turks at Sukum Kaleh seems to be confirmed by later despatches. The capture of the place appears to have been mainly due to a rising of the Circassians, who set fire to the town. The Constantinople correspondent of the Standard is able to state that the most effective measures" are being taken to follow up this success, which he says can "hardly fail to produce important results." He adds that the position of the Russians near Batoum is becoming one of great danger. It is evident from other despatches that either on account of late checks which they have received, or for the purpose of completing their preparations, the movements of the Russians in Asia have within the past four days been brought to very much of a stand still. The latest Bucharest despatches tell of a division of Cossacks which had passed through that city en route for the Danube, which, they say, is intended to head the advance of the army of invasion, but they do not believe that a crossing of the river is "immediately imminent." Another despatch from the same place says explicitly that up to the present time the Russians have not attempted to place pontoon bridges or to cross the Danube in force at any point.

James Edmundson, a half-witted brother of Poindexter Edmundson, who was to have been hanged at Bloomfield, Mo., for the murder of Wm. Shaw, has confessed on his death-bed that he (James) was the real murderer. It seems that last summer Shaw struck Poindexter on the head with a brick, inflicting a terrible wound. Both the latter and his brother swore vengeance, and shortly after the wounded man's recovery Shaw was found murdered. James then came to his brother and told him he had stabbed Shaw. Poindexter then resolved that he would suffer death for the sake of his weak-minded brother, and was tried, convicted and sentenced to be hanged, the evidence being entirely circumstantial. The respite was granted in view of the confession.

A Paris telegram of this day's date gives, apparently by authority, the constitution of the new French Cabinet. The Duc de Brogile, it will be seen, is to be President of the Council and Minister of Justice, with M. Fourton, Minister of the Interior. The resignations of M. Berthant and the Duc Decazes have not been accepted. Of M. Fourton, it is said that he is strongly suspected of Bonapartist tendencies, and he is also credited with an ability to manage elections in the Imperial style.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church North met in Chicago yesterday, nearly two thousand persons being present. The opening religious services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. D. C. Marquis, of Baltimore, assisted by Rev. Dr. Ludlow, of Detroit. A permanent organization was affected at the afternoon meeting. The Southern Presbyterian General Assembly also met yesterday at New Orleans and was duly organized.

At Oregon, Holt county, Mo., Miss Kingsbury, teacher in a select school, attempted to punish a pupil named Wm. Payne, aged 13. He resisted and struck her several blows with his fist in the breast, when she immediately fell over and expired. A post-mortem examination revealed the fact that her lungs were diseased, and the heart was so badly involved that death might have been caused at any time by over excitement.

The excitement at Paris and Versailles upon the subject of the crisis in the Cabinet was rather intensified than abated yesterday. It was followed by the adoption by a decided majority, of a resolution proposed by the Left to the effect that the Chamber would only place confidence in a Cabinet free and resolved to govern in accordance with Republican principles, which alone can secure order and prosperity.

The Russian ships Svetlana and Bogotyr, of the Russian fleet, sailed from New York yesterday morning. A very large concourse of people assembled in Battery Park to witness the departure. Salutes were exchanged between the departing vessels and American and Spanish men-of-war now lying in the harbor. The Askold also departed at noon. All went under sealed orders.

In the democratic caucus at Columbia, S. C., last night, Col. Henry McIves, of Cheraw, received the unanimous nomination for the position of associate justice of the Supreme Court, vice Willard, who was elected chief justice on Tuesday last. The election takes place to-day.

The chief organizer of the Order of Caucasians in California, P. S. Dorsey, having been expelled by the Council of Thirteen, has preferred charges against its members before the Grand Jury of Sacramento county of illegal and criminal and criminal proceedings, and says he will expose their secrets.

The British House of Commons yesterday afternoon agreed to a motion by Sir Stafford Northcote that when it adjourned last night it adjourn over Whitsuntide, to 24th instant. The Lords have adjourned to 4th June.

In accordance with a recent order of the War Department for the reduction of the army, Colonel J. J. Gregg, Superintendent of the Mounting Recruiting Service, has issued orders discontinuing the recruiting rendezvous at Boston, New York, Chicago and Indianapolis.

A Buffalo despatch announces that the long expected fleet of vessels held by the ice at the entrance of Lake Huron and the St. Clair river has arrived. Thirty came in yesterday, and the others were in sight.

In the trot at Chico, California, yesterday, between Bodine and Occident, the latter won the first heat in 2.20¼. Bodine took the next three. Time, 2.22, 2.25½, 2.30¼. There was a strong wind during the latter part of the race.

Gold was steady yesterday at 107@107¼, closing at the inside price. Government bonds were strong. The New York Stock market was dull.

The ocean steamships sailing from New York on Saturday for Europe again took out heavy consignments of breadstuffs provisions and fresh meat, besides the usual amount of assorted cargoes. Four vessels had been advertised to sail, but owing to the Denmark, of the National Line, having met with a slight accident to the machinery, her departure was delayed until Sunday in order to have the defect remedied. The steamships that sailed on Saturday were the Britannic, of the White Star Line; the Alsatia, of the Anchor Line, and the Oder, of the North German Lloyd Line. The cargo of the fourth vessel also included a large quantity of provisions, breadstuffs and beef. The total amount of grain shipped was nearly one hundred thousand bushels, and the quantity of fresh beef was not far short of a million of pounds, while of canned goods, pork, salt beef, bacon, cheese, butter, lard and other provisions, the aggregate is very large.

A weekly review of the British corn trade doubts if any serious damage to the growing crops has resulted from the backward season. In the latest districts spring sowing has been successfully completed. The late excitement in the markets appears to have almost entirely subsided, and in the country particularly they are noted as being quiet, though farmers are still holding their wheat for the highest figures with singular tenacity, seeming determined to accept none but extreme prices. The decline during the week was 1 to 2s. from the recent highest point. The Mark Lane Express concludes that the situation is sufficiently critical to justify firmness on the part of holders, especially in view of the undoubted fact that granary stocks in London are at a very low ebb. But it is remarked that appearances do not favor the idea that the war will interfere with shipments from St. Petersburg, where there are undoubtedly, large stocks of both wheat and oats accumulated.

What is known as the Washington safe-burglary conspiracy was one of the most dastardly crimes of the kind ever devised. It is too much to hope that the guilty parties will ever be brought to justice; the ring was too well organized and too powerful to be properly punished at the time, but it is altogether likely that the whole story of the affair will finally be given to the public, and it will be known who and how many of those "high up" are concerned in the crime. The confession of the notorious New York lawyer, Somerville, although not yet fully divulged, will no doubt prove much more complete and comprehensive than the half-dozen confessions already made by some of the lesser participants in the lesses participants in the plot. Just as all the facts are about to be brought out, it is not cheerful to read that those who have not been indicted cannot be because of the lapse of time.

—New York is to have an immense fire proof elevator constructed at the terminus of the Erie Railroad in Jersey City, on the pier formerly occupied by the White Star Steamship Company, the use of the property having been granted by the railroad company for this purpose. The enterprise is entirely in the hands of a few of the large grain firms of New York city. The plans have been approved, and work will begin very soon. George H. Johnson, inventor and constructor of fire-proof grain elevators, prepared the plans. The building will cost about $600,000, and have a storage capacity of 1,500,000 bushels. The dock accommodations will be so extensive that four of the largest steamships or sailing vessels can receive grain at the elevator at the same time, leaving ample room also for six canal boats to receive or deliver cargoes. It is proposed that the building shall be absolutely fire-proof.

—Mr. Wm. H. Vanderbilt's sudden departure for Europe is the subject of a good deal of speculation in New York. Though he has been making his preparations for some weeks, nothing was publicly known of his purpose until the eve of his departure. The Tribune says that none of his confidential friends seemed to understand, however, the object of the visit, nor the length of time that he expected to be absent. It was thought very strange that he should leave the country while the difficulties between the trunk lines, and the litigation with his brother, Cornelius Jeremiah Vanderbuilt, still remain unsettled. It was suggested, however, that possibly he was going abroad to avoid the annoyance and vexation of these very matters. It is understood that Cornelius Vanderbuilt, Jr., will assume charge of his father's railroad interests during his absence.

—The union was Wednesday consummated of the sectional divisions of the Methodist Protestant Church. The separation that occurred nearly twenty years ago between the Northern and Southern bodies has been happily healed in the Conventions of each that have been in session in this city since Friday, and henceforth the "Methodist Protestants" of the North and South will be united in one common denominational organization. Their congregations comprise quite a hundred thousand members, and the reunion is one of the happiest incidents of the present day. The delegates to the Northern Convention Wednesday marched into the church where the Southern representatives met them, and the two Conventions are henceforth mingled as one. There was some opposition to the amalgamation, but it amounted to very little in comparison with the size of the majority vote.

—Official returns show that during last month 8,416,829 pounds fresh beef, valued at $821,431, and 169043 pounds fresh mutton, valued at $17,648, were exported from the United States.

—Imitation is the sincerest flattery President Diaz announces, in taking the presidential chair of Mexico, that he will hold it for only one term. In this he evidently follows the example of Mr. Hayes. There are certain differences, however, between Mr. Hayes and Mr. Diaz. The former was counted in by force. Diaz governs with an iron hand, a strong heart and a wooden head; Mr. Hayes governs with amiable stubbornness, moral lollipop and commissions. They resemble each other in the determination to serve only one term. But in the case of Mr. Hayes that is a circumstance over which he has no control. In that of Diaz the promise is valueless, because he does not make it clear how long that one term will last.

—An ice blockade in the middle of May seems at least unseasonable, but there is one in the St. Clair river, and at the ship canal at the St. Clair flats continues, and will not be raised for some days yet. Evidently ice extends from the lake as far up as Algonac, several miles, and is slowly moving down. At the ends of the jam are about 150 vessels, bound up and down, which are waiting to get through. Occasionally some adventurous craft makes onslaught upon the frozen masses, and endeavors, by pushing and crowding, to make its way through. Provisions have run decidedly short in the blockaded fleet, and tugs and barges are coming to this city for supplies. Such a check to lake navigation has not been known for years.

—Not a man of passion or of hasty words is Charles Francis Adams. He does not use language to-day which he regrets to-morrow. He measured his thought when writing the letter in which he said that Hayes "carries on his brow the stamp of fraud." He holds to this day that the words of the letter were just. A few days ago, when a Herald correspondent asked him about the letter, he replied:

"The truth is stamped upon it, and cannot be gainsayed, and I have not yet had it contradicted by facts. Its truth rendered an absolute denial of its assertion impossible. I have never regretted that letter, because there was simply the whole truth in it, and I have a great regard for what it right."

—After midnight of Monday the steamship Nurnberg, from Bremen for Baltimore, collided in the lower Chesapeake with the Gorwegian bark Azow, bound to Queenstown with a cargo of 30,000 bushels of corn. The Azow was cut to the water's edge, and sank in a few moments. There were eleven persons on board, of whom seven were saved and four lost. The bark was riding at anchor, the night was very thick, and the cause of the disaster is said to be her neglect to show lights. The men who were lost were all Norwegians. The vessel and cargo are probably a total loss. The steamship was not damaged in any important respect.

—It is a fact not generally known that the United States has more miles of railway than Russia, Turkey, Germany, Austria, Great Britain, France and Italy combined, the total mileage of the former being nearly eighty thousand miles, against 76,620 miles in those countries. Of the above named countries Russia has more than double the population of the United States, Germany about two millions greater, and Great Britain, France and Austria severally about two millions less than this country. If these nations have all the money invested in railways that will afford a return, one may easily understand why so many American railway investments have proved worthless.

—Matamoras despatches report that there is a strong movement to reinstate Lerdo in the Presidency of Mexico on the Texan frontier, and the friends of Diaz are said to be exerting much activity and watchfulness to suppress any overt act of revolution. Accounts from the City of Mexico state that Congress has declared Diaz to be the Constitutional President, and on the 2d instant he was inaugurated with much enthusiasm and solemnity. On taking the oath of office he announced that he would occupy the Presidency for one term only. An effort, it is said, will be made to induce him to issue a proclamation of general amnesty.

—Iquique, too, in rich Peru, must be a nice place for a residence. It was shaken down by an earthquake in 1868, and six hundred people killed. The survivors built it up again, and in 1875 three-quarters of the town were burned up. Now the remaining quarter has been leveled by the annual earthquake. It was the same shock that produced the remarkable tidal wave observed at San Francisco, where the Coast Survey officers have recorded some important observations that may help to an understanding of these phenomena and possibly, some time in the future, to the anticipation of them.

—Fires have been raging extensively in the woods on the Lake Champlain Railroad for some days past, but Monday the flames were driven by a strong wind which prevailed into the villages of Clinton, Ellenburgh and Forest, where a number of houses and other property were destroyed. At the latest accounts the danger seemed to be far from being over. Forest fires are also reported as prevailing to an alarming extent in the mountains of Vermont and New Hampshire, thousands of acres of timber and woodland having been burned over.

—A correspondent of the New York Tribune has visited the seat of war in Kemper county, Mississipi. The sympathies of this correspondent are naturally with the Chisolm family, and he tinges his picture with political coloring, and yet he has the manliness to declare that "it was by no means a purely political outrage," but rather the terrible result of personal feud, political hatred, and a lamentably low grade of society. It will require the more abundant presence of the schoolmaster before Kemper county will be free from disreputable broils.

—But a very small business is reported on the London Stock Exchange last week, though a degree of firmness is noted as having generally prevailed, but with unimportant fluctuations in prices, excepting one ar two foreign securities. Business on Saturday was restricted, the settlements of this week having a tendency to check operations. Money was in fair demand at rates below those of the Bank. United States stocks were held quiet and steady throughout the week, with a tendency to advance.

—The $64,000 in railroad bonds which Mr. Blaine got rid of were of the issue which the Circuit Court in Arkansas has just decided to be unconstitutional.
