

He Will Tell of What He Saw on

Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., familiarly known among Christian Endeavorers as "Father Endeavor Clark," will deliver a lecture in Baltimore at the Immanuel Baptist Tabernacle on Friday, February 12, under the auspices of the Baltimore Christian Endeavor Union. His subject will be, "What I Saw in My Travels around the World," and some very e presented. Dr. Clark set out s fer the adjournment of the great C ian Endeavor convention in New Y city in July, 1992, and was absent al year, returning just in time to pre vey the Montreal convention last J

He visited almost all the countries Europe, Asia and Australia, mak many languages. He was receiv cordially, and heard attentively ev where he went, and was enabled to considerably enlarge the field of the Christian Endeavor movement by planting societies in places where it had previously unknown or received no assistance. He also obtained a great many rare and interesting views, saw many remarkable and interesting things, which he will make the subject of this lecture.

Dr. Clark is the founder of the Christian Endeavor movement, and is looked upon as one of the great men in this religious world. This fact, together with the fact that Baltimore wants the

The lecture will be delivered twice—February 2, in the afternoon as well as at night, and the proceeds will be devoted to missionary causes. The missionary committee of the Baltimore Convention, of which Mrs. M. V. Richardson is chairman, have the arrangements for the lecture in charge.—Balto. Herald.

opens with one of the richest articles ever printed—a charming study of the work of Edward Burne Jones, the Cosmo Monkhouse, the distinguished English critic. Twenty of Mr. Jones's most striking designs and figures are reproduced by his permission and that of their owners. A number of sketches are here reproduced for the first time, and the whole series, with accompanying text, gives an inter-

An article of unusual interest resulted from an expedition on behalf of Scribner's Magazine, made by Chandler Harris in company with a skillful artist, Daniel Smith, to the coast of "The Sea Island Hurricane," off the coast of South Carolina. It was a strange region which was devastated the "great storm" last autumn, killed 8,000 people and left 30,000 less and suffering. Among them in the past few months Miss Clara Harris, with a staff of workers from the Cross Society, has been dispensing needed relief. Mr. Harris viewed interesting features of this work, his well-known conception of character has enabled him to paint such a picture of the disaster, the suffering, and the work in progress. Another writer in the South could not have done so well.

The illustrations present a realistic picture of the curious life on these islands. The article in this number is by

The article in this "Home" is largely a description of "The Duet." Another article in the number will describe "The Relief."

Beautiful Lillian Russell the queen song, who will appear at Ford's Opera House during the week of ary 29th, in her delightful operatic process, Princess Nicotine, has long conceded the most beautiful voice on the American stage, to which she added talents of the highest excellence. In her new opera, Miss Russell, she appears to the best advantage, and has won distinction in her airy libretto, breezy, witty, and amusing. The joint work of Louis Harris and Chas. A. Byrne, the music by Furst has received the highest praise, sparkling with originality, somesparking with logarithmic numbers will be long remembered. Russell has surrounded herself with a fine company of singers, a chorus, and has left nothing in the way of richness in scenic effects and costumes to be desired. The fiftieth anniversary performance of Princess Nicot is recently celebrated at the Casino, New York, by appropriate souvenir photograph case containing pictures of Miss Russell in nearly every scene she has made.
