The assessment bill is in the House of pense When the School System is Not to The Howard county school board Tuesday passed a resolution urging the amendment of the Smith free schoolbook bill so that the application of funds under the contemplated law would be discretionary with county school authorities, and recommending the defeat of the bill if not so amended. This action is in line with the sentiment of leading school men and educators of the State. The ground taken is that already pointed out by THE TIMES, that the need of funds for general educational purposes is too great to admit of spending $125,000 per annum to distribute free books to those who are able to pay for them. No hardships ex- Saturday he was sent to Maryland ist under the present law governing the University Hospital. distribution of books as they are furnished already free of charge to all who are unable to pay for them. Taxpayers are too prone to complain of every cent's addition to the tax rate, even for school purposes, although the school tax is the best tax laid. Last year the Howard county school board tried to get a few cents additional from the county commissioners for general school work, but in vain. The Smith bill will keep up the State tax rate, and the public will believe that the public schools are getting the benefit of this. It is bad enough to stand public complaint about what really is applied to the public school fund, and the school authorities do not desire the odium of the Smith measure when the school system is not to be benefited by it. The various considerations influencing the school board in its action are set forth in the resolution which is as fol-

"Resolved, that it is the sense of the Board of County School Commissioner of Howard county that there is urgent need of more liberal appropriations for the support generally of the public school system in a majority of the counties of Maryland, to the end that adequate salaries may be paid teachers that schools may be kept open the ful time contemplated by law and that school property may be placed and maintained in such condition as comfort and decency require.

That such general need is paramoun to any claim that may be advanced in behalf of supplying free school-books to That ample provision is already made by law for supplying free school-books to the children of persons unable to purchase such books. That it is therefore the duty of th legislature to effect such amendment to the measure now before it, and popular ly known as the Smith free school-book bill, as would make the application of funds under the contemplated law discretionary with the school authorities

TAKING SHAPE.

Indications Concerning the Proposed Elec tric Line Through Howard County.

The preliminary steps were taken Saturday before Justice Wallenhorst for the incorporation of the electric railway company which proposes to construct proposed church improvement. an electric road through Montgomery, Howard and Baltimre counties, to connect Washington and Baltimore. The capital stock will be $1,000,000 to be divided into 20,000 shares of $50 each. The incorporators of the new company are: Dr. Francis Thomas, of Montgomery county; Harper Carroll of Howard county; George Yeakel, of Baltimore county and Alexander Brown, Samuel K. George, N. W. Williams and Henry W. Williams, of Baltimore.

The incorporators represent the local interests of the city of Baltimore and the Willie Brown; instrumental, Mrs. E. A. counties through which the new line is to pass. The route has been surveyed Mercier; violin and piano duets, Mrs. C, and all arrangements for reaching the central portions of Baltimore and Washington have been made, but the work of construction has been delayed by the financial depression. It is stated that the route as proposed extends from a point on Edmondson Avenue to the neighborhood of Mount de Sales, at Catonsville, and thence runs in as direct line as possible to Ellicott City. It has not been determined at what point the Patapsco river will be crossed, but the road will pass through Carroll Manor to Clarksville a few miles further south. From Clarksville the road will be constructed to Washington, by way of Sandy Spring and will enter the District of Columbia near Sargent road.

From Gwynn's falls to the District of Columbia it is said the road will be thirty-eight miles long. The route is one of easy curves and gentle grades, The trolley system will be used. Power for operating the cars will be furnished by two power-houses in addition to the power in Baltimore and Washington. Engineers Hull, of Baltimore, and Tucker, of Washington, are in charge at each end of the line. It is stated that the construction of the line will be commenced within ninety days, and that the road will be in operation in a year. The proposed new line in fourteen miles north of the Boulevard line. It will pass through a country without railroad facilities, and the only competition with other roads will be in through travel. It has been asserted that if the citizens along the line would unite in small subscriptions to the stock, say from $100 and upwards, there would be no hesitancy on the part of the promoters of the line to go on with the work. Many could do this without loss if a cent was never received in return, as the enhanced value of the land would more than pay them for the outlay.

The building was formerly used as a flour mill, but > three or four years as a flint mill." The flint is ground by what is known as the "dry process," according to Governor Brown's information, and is used in the manufacture of pottery. The grinding of the flint causes clouds of very fine dust, which is taken into the lungs of those working in the mill, causing their lungs to harden and resulting in death.

was abandoned for that purpose some

"It is the prevailing opinion in the reighborhood," said Governor Brown to a representative of the Sun, "that to work in the mill even for a short while means certain death, although a person may linger for some months. Those Wolfe argued before the committee who have died since the mill has been in operation and whose death, it is said, has on the pike would interfere with the been the result of their work in the mill, ere Oliver Chipley, Albert Day, Frank Witzell, Jacob Witzell, Joseph Sellman Hugh Ford and William Berry. Those who are now sick and disabled from the effects of the powdered flint are Moses Chipley, J. O. Day, Joseph Williams and Williams's son.

"The president of the flint mill is Edwin Bennett, president of the Edwin Bennett Pottery Company and proprieor of the Bennett Roofing Tile Works of Baltimore. The manager of the mill s S. P. Dankel. I have written to Messrs. Bennett and Dunkel suggesting that they meet me and that we hold a conference about some steps to be taken for the protection of their men. I have notified them that I intend to call the attention of the Legislature to the matter, and to suggest that some legislation be enacted to compel the owners of this and other mills of the kind to provide protection to their employes, as is done in mills of the kind in other parts of the country. This I will do during the present week.

"I am not familiar with the methods used elsewhere, but I understand the flint mills of New Jersey work under what is known as the 'water system'that is, the flint is ground under water and the fine dust which does the damage is prevented. There is, perhaps, some law of New Jersey to control the operation of these mills. From the death-list at Hood's Mill it is clear that some action should be taken. I knew personally all the men who have died as well as those now on the sick-list, and knew them to be strong, healthy and able bodied. I have been called on to subscribe to the relief of the families of those who have died, and I now have in my possession a subscription list in beralf of John O. Day, who has become dis-

Mr. S. P. Dunkel, general manager of the mill, said, when asked about the Browning, Mr. Richard Owings, Mrs. E. matter: "I am not sure that any of the men referred to died from the effects of working in the mill. Some of them, I am quite sure, died from other causes. There has never been a man employed at the mill who has not had made clear to him the dangers to which he would be subjected. For some time past respirators have been used by those working in the mill, and I believe that these keep out the flint dust, although a little of i may find a way through where the respirators fit over the nose. The great trouble is that some of the men, claiming that they cannot breathe through the respirators, remove them as soon as 1 get out of sight and work in the dust unprotected. It does not injure the flint to grind it under water, but many of the mar.ufacturers who use it prefer it dry, and for that reason we grind it in that condition. "The illness of Mr. Williams, the over seer, was not caused, in my opinion, by the flint. He has been suffering from a had cold for some time and has not, in my opinion, gotten over the effects of it. No one could do any more than we have done to protect the workmen from the flint, and every one now employed at the mill remains there with his eyes wide

He said: "The purpose of the bill is to authorize | crop shall be gathered in the late Spring, the City and Suburban Railway Compans to either purchase or condemn the privilege of constructing and maintaining a double-track electric railway on a portion of the bed of the Frederick turnpike, from Baltimore to Ellicott City. The bill as amended by the rail way company provides that a double track shall be laid in the centre of the turnpike, with flat rails, from Lombard street to Loudon Park. This will give wagons a use of this portion of the road similar to the use of any of the public streets of the city. The turnpike company will still have a little over eighteen feet on each side of the tracks, which can be macadamized. The manager of the turnpike company admits that at no portion of the road does the width of the macadam exceed twenty feet; in many places actual measurement shows that it is only about fifteen feet in width. The flat rails and paved street bed will afford a better hauling road to Loudon

Park than now exists. "Beyond Loudon Park to Catonsville and then to Ellicott City the tracks are to be placed on the side of the road. The chartered width of the turnpike is so great and the horse railway track now on the road is so far over toward the A pound party was given March 3rd, centre of the road that a meaurement shows that by putting the two tracks close along the side of the road, allowing width enough for ditches, plenty of space will be allowed for the hard road; in fact, nearly thirty feet of width will be avail-

"Under the terms of the bill the cleetric road cannot be constructed unless the railway company either purchases the privilege or condemns it; in either case it will amply reimburse the turnpike company for all expenses the latter may be put to in putting the pike in thorough order after the tracks are laid. The use of the turnpike to the public for wagon purposes from Loudon Park to Ellicott City will not, therefore, be injured in any way." Those here in opposition to the road were Charles W. Slagle, W. W. Taylor, Allen Dorsey, Wilmot Johnson and D. J. McIntosh and Senator Rogers. Mr. McIntosh and Senator Regers spoke in oposition to the grant. Both said that road should secure a right of way along the turnpike and not on it. Mr. Mc-Intosh also insisted that the company should specify exactly what grading will be done on the turnpike if the bill is passed. Senator Rogers said that while the delegation here is a large one, it does not represent the farmers who are chiefly interested in maintaining the turnpike for vehicle travel. "But evil is wrought by want of thought.

Scribner's Magazine for March opens with the second article by Joel Chandler Harris on "The Sea Island Hurricanes"-this one dealing especially with the great relief work which is being con-Cross Society. The distress in these islands is likely to increase until the first so that the necessity is and to be direct at a time when the public has, for the most part lost interest in the catastrophe. Mr. Harris, in his tour for Scribner's Magazine through all these islands, has presented not only the distressing part of he catastrophe but the humorous side of t which the sea-island negro so plentifully furnishes. He has used the finest literary skill in depicting these strange islands and their picturesque inhabitants. so that after reading the article one feels that he has actually lived in new and curious surroundings. The striking illustrations by Daniel Smith, made from sketches on the spot, add to this impression of reality. The third installment of "John March, Southerner," Mr. Cable's great serial of the New South, is notable for its humorous negro characterizations and for a charming bit of love-making. There is also a short satirical story 'The Summer Intimacy," by George A

Deafness Can't be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars,
