The Tailor's Friend.

A New York tailor struck up an acquaintance with a local politician, and they became constant companions. The politician may be called Jones, and his nickname is Bud, which stands for Benjamin. As Bud the tailor met him, and as Bud has always known him. One evening the tailor and his friend were in an up town cafe, chatting and drinking, while another man kept a sharp eye on them. Finally the two friends parted, and then the third man hastily approached the tailor. "Well," he said, "did you get anything out of him?" The tailor did not see the point. "Did you say anything to him about making a payment?" said the other. "What are you talking about?" answered the tailor. "That's my friend, Bud Jones."
"The mayor," he said, "is Benjamin Jones, who owes you $210. I've been trying to find him for three weeks to collect it."
"The dickens!" said the tailor, "I didn't know that. Guess you'd better not try to collect that till just yet."
New York Tribune.

A Reminder.

New Father-in-law—Well, sir, the ceremony is over, and now that you are the husband of my daughter I want to give you a little advice. What would you do if you saw a lady in up some night and find her in the house?
Bridgroom—I should tell them that my father-in-law forgot to give my wife a wedding gown, and they'd go away.
London Punch.

GREAT SACRIFICE SALE.

A Wholesale Clothing House being greatly in need of Money came to us and offered us the goods at 40cts. on the cost of Manufacture. We could not withstand the temptation and so bought nearly $75,000 worth of these goods.
Now Everybody in Baltimore knows the Empire Clothing Co. for its Reliability and Square-dealing and when we say a thing it must be so. You also know that we Manufacture every dollar's worth of our own goods, but these goods being bought at less than 1/2 of what we can manufacture them for we of course pitched in and bought.
As we intend to save our customers the difference in price, We are now selling these Goods at 40 cts. on the Dollar. Come early and Get the Pick.

FORGIVENESS.

Forgiveness—plant of soil refined, divine, Whose blossoms reach beyond the earthly Beyond the storm, the tempest and the cold To gather from heaven's unsullied shrine—O flower of Eden, be forever mine.
To cheer me when my days and years grow old,
And to cheer me when my days and years grow old,
The healing leaves by waters crystallized Thou antidote for wrath and hate and fear, Balm of the heart by lips of loved ones wounded:
Soothing the thirst of sharp bitterness, The fragrance calms the soul when night is
And
And comes with heavenly wreaths surrounded.
To light with love this land of solitude.
—Julia Jones Stickney.

HOW LEAD PENCILS ARE MADE.

Each Company Has Its Own Process and Uses Secret Machinery.
"There is probably less known about the manufacture of lead pencils than any other extensive manufacturing business," said John M. Ready of New York. "I say extensive business, for many people do not know that there is as much as $2,500,000 expended for lead pencils in the United States every year. All the machinery used in the production of lead pencils is a carefully guarded secret. It is not patented, but each company has its own process, and very little is known of it by outsiders. The general idea of the method of manufacture can be given.
"The graphite, plumbago or black lead, whichever you may call it, comes from three places—India, Germany and one part of the United States. The American lead is considered the most pure, having about one-third more carbon and much less silica than the foreign article. The plumbago as mined is brought to the factory, when the silica is separated from the graphite by a system similar to that employed in separating free gold from ore. It is crushed into a fine powder and then mixed with water, which flows over 'bumper tables.' The weight of the lead causes it to collect on the tables, and the silica and laser materials flow off with the water. The lead is then taken and mixed with clay in a mortar.
"The clay is used as a temper to the lead. The more clay used the harder the lead becomes, as when the mixture is baked the heat affects the clay, hardening it, while it has no effect upon the graphite. The mixture is then placed in a hydraulic press, which forces it out like a black twine. This is run upon tables, where it is cut in lengths of 7 inches, the length of a regular lead pencil, and straightened. It is then placed in the ovens. I have seen a continuous piece of this mixture of clay and graphite a mile long come from the press. The pieces of lead are taken from the oven and placed in the wood, which is made in two pieces, then cemented together. There is a peculiar fact about cedar, the wood most suitable for pencils. The farther south you go to obtain the wood the less knots you find and the less pitch in the wood. As you come north the amount of pitch increases, and the greater the pitch becomes irregular."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Pough mansion the other night.
Flo—What happened?
Mabel—I wanted to laugh in my sleeve, but I had on my décolleté gown and had to hide the laugh in my glove.
