LIFE AND LOVE.
 Let us live while the heart is lightest, Let us love while the heart is strong, And laugh while the day is brightest, And quicken the morn with song, Let us mourn for no joy unattain'd, Let us envy no bliss but our own, The pleasure ungrasped is wasted, Tomorrow we die, we die!
 Let us quit from the crystal showing The wine on the bearded rim, Let us gather the fragrance glowing Full ripe on the beading limb, Tomorrow the bowl is shattered, 'Ere ever the shards be dim, The fruit is withered and scattered, Tomorrow we die, we die!
 Today is for love and kisses, With life at its golden prime, A century's wealth of blisses We reap in a moment's time, The heart keeps time to the measure, While the harp of love rings high, Today is for love and pleasure, Tomorrow we die, we die!
 —Robert Clarkson Tongue.
 The photograph of the Future. "A photograph that flatters will soon be a thing of the past," said a photographer the other day. "It will be impossible to make our faces appear to the most advantage by a clever pose, for the latest innovation in photography, the multiphotograph, will not be content to become the photographic portrait of the future, will reveal all our defects and crudities. The great study which young women give their faces, to find out in which position—side, three-quarter or full face—they look the best, will all be put to naught, for the multiphotograph will take them in all these positions and others as well. "The process makes it possible to obtain a perfect likeness of a person, as one is able to see the face and head in all possible positions and angles, thus get all the characteristics. This new effect is obtained by mirrors placed at certain angles. When a person stands in front of the glasses, his likeness is reflected from 6 to 12 times, according to the arrangement of the mirrors, each image being in a different position, so that the same effect is obtained that would be secured if you were to walk around a person, viewing him from all sides and points. "The operator photographs the subject and the reflections in the mirrors. The result is a multiphotograph. I think it is destined to become the photograph of the future, as it is the only thing that will give you a likeness of a person as seen from all sides. Art in this case must succumb to nature, and the instructor that is too frequently given the photographer, 'Make me as pretty as you can,' will have to be done away with."—Pittsburg Dispatch.
 A Question of Medical Ethics. A question of medical ethics is raised in 'The Woman's' Medical Journal of Cleveland by Dr. Anita Newcomb McGee. It is a well established principle in the American Medical association that "all practitioners of medicine, their wives and their children, who under the paternal canopy, are entitled to the gratuitous services of any one or more of the faculty residing near them whose assistance may be desired." The question is whether women physicians benefit by the rule or whether it is ignored when the relative of a woman physician requires treatment by a medical man. Instances have come to Dr. McGee's knowledge in Washington where bills were sent to women physicians and paid, and she is of the opinion that "if this is a common experience it may be considered wise to maintain the principle of sexual equality in the profession by asking medical associations for an interpretation of this rule."
 Chemical Perfumes. Chemistry seems to furnish substitutes for the expensive perfumes made from flowers. This has long been known that the exact odor of the banana is produced in the laboratory. There seems a possibility, however, that even when some fragrant plants cease to be cultivated for the perfumes many may become of importance in surgery. It has been discovered that some such plants are free from the attacks of insects and from fungous growths, and this may be due to the fact that their essential oils have antiseptic properties. The eucalyptus yields an antiseptic, and so do other familiar plants.—Chicago Herald.
 Cheerfulness. A recipe for cheerfulness which Mrs. Edmund Gosse gives in a monthly is worth repeating. To two parts of usefulness add as much fresh air as can easily be obtained. Stir in two hours of beauty sleep, a silver tongue from the tip of which all spite has been removed and an eye that looks out on the brighter side of life. humor and integrity throws a plain and simple and a sprinkle of the essence of romance. And there you are.
 Chamois skins are not derived from the chamois, as many people suppose, but are the skins of a sheepskin. The skins are soaked in lime-water and in a solution of sulphuric acid. Fish oil is poured over them, and they are carefully washed in a solution of potash.
 Lovell, the naturalist, in 1861, published a book at Oxford called "Zoological Mineralogy," a title which recalls that proposed by Ibsen, who intended to call one of his books "Antipieriametapara rahengedampliciationes."
 An Eye to Calico. "See here! This calico you sold me won't wash."
 "It won't, eh? Then let me sell you a washing machine."—Texas Siftings.
SSS. CARES SCROFULA
 Mrs. E. J. Rosell, Melford, Mass., says her mother has been cured of Scrofula by the use of four bottles of SSS after having had much other treatment, and she being reduced to a low condition of health, as it was thought she could not live. I was cured all over the face. For a year I had given up all hope of my recovery, when I finally used SSS and in one month I was cured, and so SSS cured me of the disease.
