FREE CUBA OR WAR.

Not since the ominous hours which preceded the battle of Bull Run has the country been subjected to such a tension as the present. The dark and forbidding clouds of war are hanging low.

The cup of Spain's iniquity seems full. What was thought to be an interminable serial of cruelty and misrule in Cuba must end. That is what is heard in Congress and is voiced by the country.

The Roman Senate deliberated long and seriously as to whether they would treat with or wipe Carthage out of existence. The latter was decided upon.

For the past fifty years the American people have been periodically called upon to utter indignant words of protest against Spain's shocking cruelties to the people under her control on the island. The Maine incident was but the legitimate sequence of her policy of treachery, then has come the brutal murder by starvation of a half a million of her non-combatants. Too weak to conquer a chivalrous foe she has employed tactics that would shame darkest Africa. The American people are about to say "you shall not flaunt your black flag longer in our view."

Painful as the thought of war is the situation is such that we cannot avoid the responsibility without dishonor. The latest from Washington this (Friday) morning is, President McKinley has determined upon his policy, that is, intervention, which means independence for or annexation of the island Let it be the latter. May the world have the benefit of our benign Constitution and if possible our protection.

We are better prepared for war than Spain is, with an intelligence and energy behind it which will overcome all obstacles. In the catagory of her foolish acts Spain will commit another if she does not shrink from the impending conflict.

CHANDLER ON BIMETALLISM.

Senator Chandler, one of the founders of the Republican party who was of it and with it from the beginning and who is recognized as one of the brainiest leaders, says that the party cannot win on a gold standard platform; that it must stand by international bimetallism or go down in defeat. He claims that the failure last year to secure an agreement with the European powers, does not necessarily mean a failure this year. He recalls the fact that France promptly agreed to consider the question, Germany was willing to do so, and that Great Britain's refusal was the sole cause of failure. He says opinions have changed in Great Britain because of the conditions in India, and that a mission from the United States would probably meet with success now.

The Senator does not believe that the United States can by itself maintain the double standard at any ratio, but that should France and the other States of the Latin union, and Germany, agree, then the metals can be maintained at a parity. These nations have now $1,658,000,000 in gold and only $700,000,000 in silver, whilst the United States with $700,000,000 in gold has $634,000,000 in silver.

Senator Chandler thinks the single standard gold men are as far wrong politically and economically as the sixteen to one silvermen, and that the adoption of either policy would result in great injury to the country.

When the vote on the Teller resolution was taken, of the Republican Senators who stood by the party in 1896, Chandler, Pritchard, of North Carolina, Warsen and Clarke of Wyoming, Wolcott, of Colorado, Carter and Mantle of Montana, and Shoup, of Idaho, voted for the resolution, and Chandler believes that in 1900 a majority of the party will vote that way in the convention.

WHY THE ANTI-TRUST LAW FAILS.

An axe and tool trust is being organized, to try and control the manufacture of all small tools. It is well there is no anti-trust law in the United States. What's that you said?

"There is an anti-trust law which, as high authority as John Sherman said, was strong enough to prevent any trust."

What is the Attorney General doing then?

"The last heard of him he was eating a hundred-dollar-a-plate dinner given in his honor by the trust magnates; probably he is now digesting it."

Those who are charging that the Democrats in Congress favor war because they think it would help them in the Congressional elections, forget that the war would be conducted by a Republican administration. The Democrats view the matter from a patriotic point of view, and desire war with Spain because they think it necessary for our National welfare to teach the world an object lesson by driving the Spanish flag out of Cuba and incidentally avenging the men who were murdered on the Maine.

Secretary Gage is truthful, if not politic. He said the other day that it was true the Republican party had made a complete surrender to the advocates of the gold standard monopoly.

It is a good time to remind some persons that questions involving National honor are not among those which this country will submit to arbitration.

Spain might as well throw up the sponge, now that Charlotte Smith has announced her intention to lead a regiment of Amazons to war.

There is no European ruler who has not enough home-knitting on hand to prevent their having anytime to help Spain fight us.

A Boston Union barber wants all the labor organizations to prohibit their members shaving themselves.

The Standard Oil Co., is opposed to war because it has a monopoly of the oil business in Spain and Cuba.

FROM ANNAPOLIS.

Correspondence of THE TIMES.

ANNAPOLIS, March 25, 1898.

What promised to be a long and tedious piece of legislation, robbing the last days of the session of more than its due portion of time, the Baltimore City new charter bill, went through its several stages in the House, and passed unanimously Wednesday night, so quickly and smoothly, as hardly to make its presence known, except to those who closely follow the routine of business. Being the Senate bill the act was amendable on its third reading. A number of amendments were offered by the Malster element of the Republican party, but none were accepted by the House. Mr. Wilkinson, Democrat, voiced the sentiment of the minority by stating in the beginning of the consideration of the bill on Wednesday evening, that he would oppose any amendments to the bill, and the Republicans would have to take the responsibility of the measure. They had sent it down too late in the session for any consideration of the details of the charter. All the Democrats took the same view of the matter, and the bill was passed without a dissenting vote.

The Republican organization dies hard. Although it is given out that it has abandoned the Police Re-organization Bill, it is in evidence that the "Combine" is laying its plans for a further assault upon the minority of its own party, and the credulity of the Democrats in its professions of police reform. That the Combine would crush the Malster element, has been evident the whole session, and it is equally apparent that the compact Democratic minority was not falling into any traps that the conscienceless "Combine" was setting for them. The Democrats in the Legislature have reached this conclusion, that two Republicans appointed by the Governor in a Board of three, and one Democrat selected in any manner, as the third member, would be simply the fly accepting an invitation to walk into the parlor of the spider, and that the only police reorganization that the Democrats would agree to, is a real, bi-partizan board of two to two, and the Democrats to select their two. Six Malster Republicans in the House with the Democrats can defeat the "Combine," and doubtless these will be forthcoming at the proper time.

The Democrats in the House have been very adroit the session through. Their ability has wrung praises from their enemies. Their masterful command of the situation has won the admiration of the State Democracy. Following right and politic principles, they have saved their counties and the State from rank political legislation. Their prompt hand in electing the Speaker, gave them quality and quantity from their party on the committees, and holding and voting to let every delegation decide what was proper for its own local legislation. So far not a single obnoxious bill has been forced over the heads of any delegates from a Democratic county.

When the Democrats elected Lloyd Wilkinson in the House, they made no mistake. Capable, courageous, conscientious in the discharge of his duties, equipped by a large legislative experience, broadened by the principles of his profession, cool, good tempered, and masterful in argumentative resource, while he may be a thorn in the side of the Republicans, he is a tower of strength to every Democrat in the arena of debate and argument. Never unhorsed, never drawing his blade in useless encounter, he comes out of every contest with his political opponents, with new laurels and another victory.

The wearing rush and monotonous drawl of the roll call of local bills on their final passage, is beyond conception except to those who are present. The house has begun to have three sessions a day, and the weary hours of prolonged work, tell heavily on the health and vitality of the members.

The bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Day, and passed by that body to bond Howard County for $300,000 to improve the public roads, was defeated in the House on Friday, by a vote of 53 to 27. On Friday the House bill to authorize Anne Arundel Commissioners to use a sum of money to repair the Race road running through parts of Howard and Anne Arundel counties, was passed.

On Wednesday the Senate bill incorporating the Howard County Agricultural Association, was passed in the Senate.

The act refunding taxes erroneously paid by Wm. F. Brown in Howard county, has passed both Houses, and is being engrossed for presentation to the Governor.

A bill amending the act incorporating Mt. Airy was passed in the House on Tuesday.

Governor Loundes on Tuesday approved the act sanctioning the bequest of Dennis Mulligan, of Baltimore county, to Cardinal Gibbons for the Catholic Church, Ellicott City.

The act to refund erroneously paid taxes to Caleb T. Cross, Collector, of Howard county, was sent to the Governor for approval on Wednesday.

Mr. Hanson introduced a bill in the House on Tuesday to amend the Howard county laws relative to county commissioners and county collectors; referred to the Howard delegation and Mr. Walbach.

The House bill penalizing the throwing of refuse on public roads of Howard county has been reported favorable and passed first reading in the House.

House bill authorizing the Howard county commissioners to accept as a public road in the First district the road known as Lawyer's Hill road, has passed its second reading in the House.

In the House on Friday, Mr. Sandman of Baltimore county, introduced a bill to extend the corporate limits of Ellicott City. Referred to the Howard delegation and Mr. Walbach, of Charles.

SPAIN'S FLOTILLA.

Spain has ordered her flotilla of torpedo boat destroyers to proceed to Porto Rico. As this armament will form a serious menace to the security of our fleet the navy department is much concerned about it. In the meantime the government is making every effort to offset this fleet by preparing and purchasing similar craft, and if hostilities can be postponed for two weeks doubtless the government will be fully prepared, if we are not already prepared.

THE HOME MARKET RACKET.

The home market delusion was well punctured by Representative Dockery in a recent criticism of the Dingley bill. By the census of 1890, he showed, the capital invested in farmlands was $13,279,000,000 and the farmers' products, exclusive of live stock, were worth $2,460,000,000. The manufacturers had $6,189,000,000 invested and their net output, after deducting cost of materials was $4,210,000. The farmers' capital was twice that of the manufacturers, but his product brought him but half as much. The farmers sold abroad—mostly to England—$596,000,000 worth while the manufacturers exported but $151,000,000 worth. That is, the manufacturers sold at home at tariff-made prices all but 3.59 per cent. of their product, while the farmers had to sell abroad under free-trade conditions 24.02 per cent. of their entire output. The protected manufacturer enjoyed a monopoly of the home market and sold his limited surplus to foreigners often at rates below those exacted at home. The farmers, after supplying the home market, have to sell one-fourth of their product where it can get no enhancement of price by reason of our tariff laws. The home market is coerced for the benefit of one class, but cannot be utilized for the enancement of prices by the other.—Balt. Sun.

"THRICE IS HE ARMED WHO HATH HIS QUARREL JUST."

BY TIM TRICKETT.

A young woman who is too diffident to give her name for publication sends me the following, and asks me to give it the protection of my great reputation.

I've heard of an island far off in the ocean,
Which is free from all men, men's love and devotion.
Where only are women, sad ones, with no chances for flirts,
Who talk mostly of dress, shirt waists, and the fashion of skirts.
'Tis seldom they smile and as for laughter—they laboriously force it.
And painfully, too, because of their collars so high, and the corset.
They have numerous cats, all females of course, but tip-top as mousers.
And dollies also of various sizes all dressed up in trousers.
Of politics they've heard, of platforms, and parties suns number.
Of bosses they think, and of voting whilst even they slumber.
About money they know, of nickels, silver, and gold,
And meetings to discuss them, they frequently hold.
Silver they believe in, for speech it is silver, so it is said,
As silence is golden so at gold each shakes sadly her head.
At a meeting one night, all at the same time were speaking
As is the custom of women, whilst some even were shrieking,
A bright little Miss, with brownest of hair and brightest of eyes
Arose from her chair, saying, twixt, sobs, laughter, and sighs,
The ratio of metals I don't understand, but sure as a gun,
I'll trade women for men, every time, at sixteen for one.

Says the New York Sun: "Cremate your English grammar. There never was an English grammar that didn't darken understanding. The whole pack of English grammar is but a set of fossilized rules, and obiter dicta about this wonderfully illimitable and passionately living speech." Result of the first cremation—I heard a woman say "I hain't not in no great hurry."

* *

Senator Proctor's report of what he saw and heard in Cuba, whilst doubtless honest and true, so far as he knows, may not be a correct one of the real condition of affairs there for he saw but little, and gathered much of his information from those who were doubtless, more or less biased. Whilst the picture that he drew of the starvation, ruined homes, plantations, sugar mills, tobacco houses, &c., is terrible, in what respect, does it differ from the reality which was seen in the South after Sherman's march to the sea, with its horrors of burned Columbia, houses, mills, ruined plantations, and devastation everywhere, or from the ruin of Sheridan's Valley of Virginia campaign, during which he said that "if a crow wishes to visit it he will have to take his rations with him." Suppose that there is limitless misery, destitution and cruelty in Cuba, is that any reason why we should interfere and bring upon our people all the terrible calamities of war? I think not. Why didn't we interfere in the Armenian troubles? Suppose England had wanted to carry in vessels of war, or in merchantmen, supplies of all kinds, including medicines, clothing, &c., to the Southern people wouldn't that have been a casus belli? I am sure it would have been so considered if we had felt strong enough to resist. There's a nigger in the woodpile some where.

* *

In the event of war with Spain, there will be no Grant, or Lee to command the forces of the United States, but only narrow minded, mean snob, and if it be true that it is only the act of a coward to insult a fallen foe, then a coward will command them, for when Jefferson Davis, broken in health and fortunes, was a prisoner at Fortress Monroe, Miles was his jailor and went out of his way to insult the captive President of the Southern Confederacy.

* *

The intense and unselfish patriotism of our people is best noticed when we read of the offers, for sale, for cash, of numberless old tugs, yachts, steamers, ships &c.

* *

The Baltimore Sun evidently uses, if it use one at all, a bible of its own editing. In an article entitled "cheerful giving" it quotes freely from that bible. I wonder if any mention is made in it of the commands "not to bear false witness, and to forgive ones enemies," and of the sin of lying and slandering. Are the beauties of charity mentioned in it?

* *

As I write Mr. Day's bill appears to be dead, in spite of his private vehement assertions to the bosses of his party that he could not, mark it, he, could not save Howard county for the party unless it became a law. I am glad that Messrs. Hanson and Selby took such a prominent and honorable part in the killing. I've heard that Day's plan was to colonize nigger voters in all doubtful precincts.

* *

Senator Sewell, of New Jersey, objects, so the Washington Post says, to a national quarantine, because the south may reap some pecuniary advantage. Fraternal and high minded northern Statesman that. He merely echoes the views of his party.

* *

A model road from Annapolis to Baltimore, subsidized by the State, may be constructed. Who own the lands, village sites, &c., along the line of the projected road? Does foul-mouthed Randall require the money for use to keep his county away from the Democratic party? It seems to be necessary to use a good deal of money to make Maryland Republican.

* *

A meeting of colored Republicans endorsed one Smyth for register of the U. S. treasury in place of R. K. Bruce. Their endorsement went to protest and another and a blacker man was appointed.

* *

Why is the report about the disaster to the Maine so long delayed? Can it be possible that the facts so far gathered, do not show any necessity for the expenditure of the $50,000,000 and for the wonderful cheap for cash, patriotism, the papers chronicle? Some people think that all the war talk, and the utterances for publication of high officials' private opinions, were for the purpose of keeping congress and the people from action about money matters, bi-metallism, alleged prosperity and the like. Whilst I believe that Mr. McKinley is an honest man, still there is a good deal that is theatrical in his attitude of serene patience and forbearance, and his assumption of wonderful self command, firmness, and, well, call it dignity. A little old-fashioned "cussin" about the Maine would'nt hurt. It would make people think him sincere. Almost too perfect is his pose for just an ordinary man, and that's all that he is, and entirely too much so for an Ohio Statesman or politician. It is interesting to mark how he makes Congress keep step to his music. He's no fool even if he did invent a tariff which nearly "busted" the country.

THE NEW OBSERVATION CARS.

Between Baltimore and Pittsburg on The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

The new Observation Cars "Undine" and "Bianca" on Trains Nos. 5 and 6, the New York and Chicago Limited Trains on the Baltimore and Ohio R. R., are the latest cars of this pattern from the Pullman Shops. They are magnificently furnished with splendidly equipped buffet, parlor, state room and observation end. The observation platform is a special feature. It is six feet deep, with extended roof, the sides being protected by large plate glass windows. Passengers can enjoy the magnificent scenery on all sides in perfect comfort. The buffet is ever ready to supply light refreshments, and dining cars en route serve full meals. The cars are the handsomest ever built by the Pullman Company, and will be run daily between Baltimore and Pittsburg on the trains mentioned. 13

PUBLICATIONS.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE FOR APRIL.—The complete novel in the April issue of Lippincott's "Merlel," is a love story in the peculiar vein of Amelia Rives, Princess Troubetzkoy. The scene is laid mainly in Italy, though the highly selected hero and heroine are English.

"The Strangest River in America," the Colorado, with its terrible cayons and rapids, is described by John E. Bennett. R. G. Robinson writes of "Florida Storms," and Dr. Harvey B. Bashore on "The Making of Man."

"Northward to the Harlem, and Beyond," is the concluding paper of Dr. Theodore F. Wolfe's series, "Some Literary Shrines of Manhattan." James M. Scovel's paper on "Thaddeus Stevens" includes some personal reminiscences.

Henry Willard French's observations and experiences "In an Australian Camp" will be found both interesting and instructive. The tribal battles of the aborigines, as witnessed by him, were noisy rather than destructive.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE FOR APRIL.—Each number of Scribner's for 1898 has marked the beginning of a new feature. In January Senator Lodge's "Story of the Revolution" and Page's "Red Rock" began; in February, Captain Mahan's first paper on naval episodes of the Revolution; in March, Mr. Wyckoff's new series of his experiences among "The Workers"; and in the current issue for April, the feature is the first part of Richard Harding Davis's short serial "The King's Jackal." This is the dramatic tale of an exiled king, and the action takes place at Tangier in the space of thirty-six hours. It contains some very good comedy scenes, and the characters are of that cosmopolitan cleverness that Mr. Davis delights to depict. A beautiful American heroine is the heroine, and a newspaper correspondent is the real hero. Mr. Gibson will make a full-page drawing for each of the four parts of the story: Senator Lodge's "Story of the Revolution" in this instalment gives one of the most impressive accounts even written of the masterly retreat that Washington conducted through New Jersey. Frederick of Prussia is reported to have said of the Battles of Trenton and Princeton that it was the greatest campaign of the century.

REVIEW OF REVIEWS FOR APRIL.—The Cuban crisis naturally demands more space in the editorial department of the American Monthly Review of Reviews than any other single topic. The whole matter is reviewed in the light of the latest and most authentic information received up to the time of going to press. The Review is convinced that the country desires and will demand intervention in Cuba, that the real question at issue is the relief of Cuba, not the settlement of the Maine incident, and that Spain's final withdrawal from the Western hemisphere will be the only satisfactory termination of the present trouble.

The newly-discovered gold-region in Mexico, towards which a movement has set in second only to the Klondike migration, is described in an illustrated article contributed by Mr. H. D. Slater.

The story of the Swiss Government's purchase of the railroads, as authorized by the recent referendum vote, is told by Mr. J. R. Macdonald

The Vienna editor who writes of the possibility of Spain "raising revolts in the American Southern States," appears to know even less of America and its people than the average Madrid editor, who knows nothing at all.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Week of March 28—Mr. Sothern in "Lady Ursula."

The adventure of "Lady Ursula," Anthony Hope's original comedy, will be the opening piece presented by Mr. E. H. Sothern and his company at the Academy of Music on Monday, March 28th. The part of Sir George Sylvester as played by Mr. Sothern is very different from what our theatre-goers have always seen him in, and it is said to be a part that suits him very well and proves his versatility. Miss Virginia Harned, as Lady Ursula Barrington, has created a new comedy role, in which she has scored a pronounced and instantaneous success. The beautiful setting, accessories, etc., have received the greatest praise from both press and public.

The play tells of how Sir George Sylvester (E. H. Sothern) had sworn never to fight a duel or look upon the face of a woman again, owing to the fact that he had killed his best friend in a duel over a woman. He religiously keeps his vows for two years, when Lady Ursula Barrington (Virginia Harned) wagered with her cousin Dorothy that she will in some form or other effect an entrance into the house of Sir George Sylvester. She feigns to faint, the ruse does not work and she is sent to the porter's lodge instead. Her brother, Lord Hassender, who passes by at the time, thinking his sister has been insulted, challenges Sir George to a duel. He, however, knows nothing of the wager between his sister and cousin Dorothy. Lady Ursula tries by all means to stop this duel, and for two acts of the play, masquerades as a boy and finally comes face to face with Sir George Sylvester in his own house. A very happy ending is brought forth. The other parts of the play assigned to Morton Selten, Royden Erlynne, C. P. Flockton, Rowland Buckstone, Arthur P. Lawrence, Marshall Stedman, Daniel Jarrett, Norman Parr, Kate Pattison-Selten, Rebecca Warren and others.

"The Adventure of Lady Ursula" will be presented during the entire week except on Saturday evening, when Mr. Sothern will present his greatest and original comedy success "Lord Chumley."

There will be but one matinee, on Saturday.
